Bond Of T.E. Dugan Held Valid By Court

Judge Skinker Holds Signers Must Pay City

The bond of Tom E. Dugan, former city collector, was declared valid by Judge Cornelius H. Skinker, in the circuit court of Bolivar late Thursday afternoon. He held that the signers, E. W. Dugan and George E. Dugan, father and brother respectively of the former collector, and H. W. Mason and Dr. C. A. McNeil, cashier and president of the Union Savings Bank, respectively, are liable to the city for Dugan's shortage, admitted by his attorneys and bondsmen to be $9,387.57.

The court, in announcing his decision, said that it is very easy for a judge to make harsh remarks about witnesses' testimony, but he would refrain from doing so. He referred to Tom Dugan's conversation with E. W. Jones, former city counselor, in which Dugan asked for advice, then changed his mind two or three times in accepting it. He mentioned the fact that the bond was largely fixed by law, that it was on file in a public place where any of the signers could have seen it at any time, and furthermore, they had practically made Tom Dugan their agent. He had filled out the bond, arranged for the signatures and they had permitted him to act for them, therefore he did not believe the bond altered.

Says Appeal Be Taken

H. T. Williams, one of the defendants' attorneys, said that an appeal will be taken. A motion for a new trial will be filed in the Polk county court Monday morning.

The defendants, under the decision of Judge Skinker, are liable for all costs in the case, except attorney fees and for six per cent interest on the amount of judgment dating from the date of entry, which was Thursday.

The case was one concerning the $20,000 bond of T. E. Dugan, who admitted embezzlement of city funds while serving his third term as city collector. He is now serving a six year term in the penitentiary. The city had photostatic copies of the bond made and sent to the signers, asking for payment of the shortage. Two words typed in the printed form, "or property" were said by the signers not to have been in the bond when signed. These words made them liable for any property in the collector's care misappropriated as well as moneys. However, the city was not asking for anything except the actual shortage shown by an audit.

The signers declared those words were not in the bond when they signed it, that because something had been added it voided the entire bond and they were not liable.

No Senate Action On Patrol Increase

JEFFERSON CITY, June 2—(AP)—Backers of the house-passed Caldwell bill to add 50 men to the state highway patrol wondered today if the measure ever would get to the senate floor.

Their hopes were high for two days hand running but glimmered as the senate adjourned yesterday and Sen. Michael Kinney (D), St. Louis, chairman of the roads and highways committee, cancelled a scheduled meeting of the group.

Kinney announced his committee "had nothing to consider" in calling off the meeting he had announced earlier.

The bill first was scheduled to be taken up in Sen. Kinney's committee Wednesday afternoon, but the chairman emerged from that meeting with the announcement of "no action."

Proponents based their fading hopes of senate action on the measure on the fact that the appropriations committee still is holding the bill allocating 1939-40 funds for the highway patrol. Apparently, they say, the appropriations group is waiting on the fate of the Caldwell bill before passing on funds for Col. B. Marvin Casteel's troopers.

Plans For Student Activity Center

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 2.—University of Missouri students may have a student union next fall temporarily ending a 15-year campaign for an activity center.

Bids will be opened June 15 for renovations on Read Hall, located near the unfinished student union partially erected more than a decade ago, it was announced here today. It is expected that about $35,000 will be allotted to turning the women's dormitory into a temporary student activity center.

Toy Library To Open Saturday

The toy library, sponsored by the Girl Scout council, will be opened Saturday and toys will be given out, by card, between the hours of 10 and 12.

The committee in charge, Mrs. Harold Dean, chairman, is busy today completing arrangements for the opening. The toys have been placed and all must be card indexed before the opening.

Judges Dinner Guests

The judges of the county court, H. F. Fricke, Malcolm Scott, and J. K. Lacey, Jr., and W. B. Rissler, county clerk, were guests for dinner at noon today of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Hayes, at their home on South Barrett avenue.

Recall Move At Kansas City Is Held Illegal

Political Ax Is Ready To Fall On Another Key Man

KANSAS CITY, Jue 2.—Another recall move aimed at all elective Kansas City officials was ruled illegal today while the political axe was reportedly being sharpened for at least one more key appointive office holder.

Marcy K. Brown, Jr., assistant city counselor, held a recall affidavit filed by Oscar B. Elam, an attorney, was illegal because all officials were named in one document. He held a separate instrument must be filed against each official named in a recall affidavit.

A similar effort by Elam to force a recall move a few weeks ago was similarly held invalid. The attorney apparently acted in both cases as an individual without organization backing.

Charles P. Woodbury, only Republican member of the city council, several weeks ago carried to the city hall a recall threat he said was voiced by property owners objecting to the new Brookside sewer.

Last week, Manvel H. Davis, former state senator and a Republican leader urged "every step the charter and the laws provide" be taken to remove the elective officials. No action has followed his plea.

Decline To Comment

Meanwhile, Mayor Bryce B. Smith and City Manager Eugene C. Zachman declined to comment today on reports George L. Goldman, municipal auditorium director, might be the next city official to go. The Star said Goldman was "marked" for ouster.

Jerry Ryan, city welfare director, and W. J. Teefey, purchasing agent, were discharged by Zachman yesterday after they refused his request that they resign. They explained they feared resignation might invalidate efforts to collect back pay due them.

Preble Hall resigned earlier yesterday as city personnel director and officials said the resignation of Fred Bellermere as city counselor would be accepted early next week.

Dr. Robert I. Wilson, president of the Kansas City Council of Churches, charged last night that "the machine is still in power in Kansas City and let no one tell you that the crisis is past."

Gov. Lloyd C. Stark wired Dr. Wilson congratulations on that part of his radio address which asserted "it is essential that the police bill be passed if Kansas City is to be freed from the shackles of political depotism."

Business Men Seek Revising Of Wagner Act

Talked Also On Tax Matters At White House

WASHINGTON, June 2. Secretary Hopkins said today a group of business men urged President Roosevelt last night to seek amendment of the Wagner labor relations act during a discussion of business conditions.

Hopkins told reporters the eight business men who dined at the White House presented no specific labor plan but he indicated that possible changes in the wording and administration of the Wagner act was one of the most important topics of their discussion with Mr. Roosevelt.

Foreign trade, particularly with South America, and taxation also were discussed, Hopkins added.

On capitol hill, the house ways and means committee was considering tax revision. A witness for the United States Chamber of Commerce suggested imposition of a flat-rate normal corporation tax of 15 per cent and outright repeal of the undistributed profits levy.

Talking with newsmen, Hopkins said the White House conference was "very frank and friendly" and that he hoped to arrange more conferences with these and other business men. Also, the secretary of commerce said he thought other groups such as the farmers, labor and the unemployed might be represented at future meetings.

Purpose To Promote Jobs

The cabinet member said the central purpose of the discussions was to seek means of making "our economic system work better" so that idle capital could be put to work to provide jobs for the unemployed.

Hopkins said the President spent about an hour with the business men and indicated the labor act discussion took up so much time that a number of other subjects were not brought up.

The commerce department's business advisory council, to which last night's diners belong, is drafting a confidential report on how the Wagner act should be changed, Hopkins said, but this specific plan was not presented last night. He added the council plan, when drafted, will be kept confidential by himself and the President.

A reporter asked whether it was necessary, in order to promote government-business cooperation, for the government to meet business part way in its

In May, 1938, there were 16 clear days, seven partly cloudy and eight cloudy.

Claim Saving Of Lives By The Use Of A New Drug

NEW YORK, June 2.—Sulfapyridine, medicine's new remedy for pneumonia, has changed the entire aspect of this disease in childhood, Dr. Charles Hendee Smith of New York told the American Academy of Pediatrics today.

He and other physicians told of more than 100 child lives saved in the last winter by sulfapyridine a drug which is let not a year old in medical practice.

Since last fall its use has spread widely over the civilized world. Among children Dr. Smith said the death rate has been high in infants, low in older children. The sulfapyridine saves many infants and shortens the course of illness of the older children.

Type 19 is the pneumonia most deadly for infants, he said. The sulfapyridine is just as effective against this type as any other.

He told of 50 cases of child pneumonia in which the sulfapyridine reduced temperature to normal in 24 hours. He and other doctors agreed that these life-saving results are confined to the usual form of pneumonia which is naused by the pneumonococcus germ.

It is not very effective against pneumonias caused by streptococci and pertussis, or whooping cough infections.

A new conquest for sulfapyridine in the almost always fatal, although rare disease, pneumonococcis meningitis, was reported by Dr. Thurman B. Givan of the Long Island College of Medicine, Brooklyn.

Recovery, before sulfapyridine and its companion miracle-drug, sulfanilamide, was so rare that medical literature cites only 200 cases that got well. Dr. Givan reported on recent work of other doctors who have cured 27 cases with sulfanilamide and 3 with sulfapyridine. He told of two more cases he had treated with sulfapyridine. One recovered completely, the other is alive but still has mental trouble.

Babe, Stolen By Woman, Found

Girl In Abduction To Replace Child That Had Died

PHILADELPHIA, June 2—(AP)—A blonde, 21-year-old girl arrested on a charge of kidnaping five-months-old Gerald McCrohan from his carriage was quoted by Detective George Myers today as saying she took the child to replace her own who died.

The officer said the girl was unwed. Booked as Beatrice Wood, she told this story of the abduction after her arrest this morning with a man Myers found with the missing boy:

A son was born to her last March. He died, but she kept the news from its father.

When he demanded to see the boy, she stole baby Gerald from his carriage while his mother shopped in a butcher store, went to the father and told him the child was theirs.

The girl poured out her story in a police station. She was arrested with a man booked as Frederick Bauers, 23. Detective Myers said he followed the girl from a drug-store where the officer had been

Public Debt Hits New High

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP) The treasury closed eleven months of the fiscal year May 31 with a $3,240,467,092 deficit. This was about $800,000,000 less than the $4,072,000,000 estimated by the budget for the full 12-month period.

The deficit, however, was more than double the $1,286,570,000 reported May 31, 1938.

At the end of May, the treasury had collected $5,055,301,868 in taxes and other revenue, and had spent $8,295,768,960. The comparable figures a year ago were $5,467,713,250 in receipts and $6,754,283,330 in expenditures.

For the first time in more than a year, treasury revenues in May, amounting to $396,781,388, were higher than or the comparable month of the previous year, when $375,396,320 was collected. All branches of revenue, especially the manufacturers' excise, social security and customs levies, were higher in May, 1939.

The big bulge in expenditures this fiscal year was caused by the WPA, which spent $2,072,748,752 in the 11 months, compared with $1,306,773,461 for the comparabale 1938 period.

The $1,000,000,000 PWA program, however, which also started last summer, had cost the treasury only about $256,000,000 in the 11 months.

The public debt on May 31 was at a new high of $40,281,007,681, as a result of $3,117,067,366 of treasury borrowing in the 11 months.

However, because the treasury now has $2,254,178,517 cash on hand, Secretary Morgenthau has decided not to borrow any more money for the treasury in the open market until September.

Gain Is Made In Sales Tax Returns

JEFFERSON CITY, June 2—(AP)—Missouri's 2 per cent sales tax produced $1,906,686 during May, a gain of $135,191 over the same month in 1938, the state auditor's office reported today.

The levy is rolling along well ahead of last year's yield. It showed an increase of $588,225 in the first five months of 1939 compared with the same 1938 period.

Error In Numbers Of Pendergast And O'Malley

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., June 2—(AP)—Pictures released today by the department of justice disclosed an error in numbers first reported assigned T. J. Pendergast and R. Emmet O'Malley at the Leavenworth federal prison.

Pendergast, Kansas City political boss, is shown in the picture as convict No. 55,295 instead of 55,259 as first reported. O'Malley is No. 55,296 instead of 55,260.

Both entered prison Monday to serve terms for federal income tax evasion.

Lightning Hits Rock Quarry; Injures Three

Rush Them To Hospital From Near Georgetown

Joe Gehlken, Lee Murray and Roy Hall, WPA workers on the rock quarry project, on the Dow farm near Georgetown, were struck by lightning about 3 o'clock this afternoon, and Gehlken and Murray are in a dangerous condition. Hall was less seriously injured, it is believed.

The men were brought to the Bothwell hospital in McLaughlins' and Gillespies's ambulances.

Others Struck

Others standing nearby when the lightning struck were Joe Sumners, Willis Buckley, Clark White, and J. E. Scott.

The men were standing under a shelter connecting the rock crusher. It is believed Gehlken was leaning against a piece of metal, the lightning struck that, and it passed on to Murray, nearby. Hall suffered more from shock.

A pulmotor sent out by the City Light and Traction company was brought back to the hospital for use if necessary.

Kill Thirteen In Holy Land

JERUSALEM, June 2.—(AP)—Thirteen persons were killed and scores injured today in Palestine disorders. Casualties included Britons, Jews and Arabs.

A railroad patrol of four British soldiers and three Jews was wiped out by an Arab band near Kalkilieh, 35 miles northwest of Jerusalem. The outlaws seized a machine gun and other arms.

Six Arabs, including a policeman, were killed and a score injured when time bombs buried in the market place near Jerusalem's Jaffa gate exploded as thousands of Arabs were making their daily food purchases.

Following the explosions, Arabs stoned Jewish traffic in the Arab-Jewish quarter, causing authorities to halt all traffic temporarily.

Three other bombs exploded in Jerusalem during the early morning. One ripped apart communication lines, putting 750 telephones out of use.

Delay Tactics Are Evident On Legislation

To End Congress Middle Of July Growing Demand

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Senate opponents of the administration's neutrality program counted today on a growing demand for congressional adjournment by July 15 to aid them in blocking action.

With this in mind, some senators were disclosed authoritatively to be laying the groundwork for attempts to delay other legislation as much as possible.

These delay tactics, it was said, may take the form of efforts to amend the forthcoming corporation tax revision when it reaches the senate.

Although he declined to comment on the reported strategy, Senator Borah (R-Idaho) said he expected a great deal of senate discussion of the tax proposals.

Borah has opposed the suggestion of Secretary Hull for repeal of the arms embargo and substitution of presidential control of war-time shipping.

The senate, however, wasted no time yesterday in approving a $305,267,000 flood control bill.

Senator Adams (D-Colo) pleaded in vain with members to back up action of the appropriation committee in cutting $50,000,000 from amounts previously voted by the house.

"You can't beat a pork barrel," Adams said. He added that the measure contained funds for flood control or rivers and harbors work in every section of the country.

The economy bloc leaders conceded that they faced another losing fight in an effort to trim to $40,000,000 a bill to authorize the purchase of strategic war materials. The senate passed the bill originally for that amount and the house approved a $100,000,000 authorization.

A joint senate-house committee recommended the larger sum. Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, blocked approval yesterday temporarily.

McNary explained he had acted in behalf of Senator Taft (R-Ohio). Taft said, however, he believed there was little chance of forcing acceptance of the lower amount, when the bill comes up again next week.

The senate approved yesterday a bill to extend from $30,000,000,000 to $45,000,000,000 the limit on the amount of bonds which the treasury may have outstanding. The bill does not affect the $45,000,000,000 limit on the total national debt.

The senate added an amendment authorizing the TVA to issue $100,000,000 in bonds. The measure, previously passed by the house, now goes back to that branch for action on the amendment.

The house, meanwhile, received from its labor committee a series of proposed changes in the wage-hour law designed to benefit small farming operations. One would exempt small canning plants from the hour provisions of the law and another would exempt both the wage and hour sections the preparation, not including canning, of fruits and vegetables in certain cases.

Would Liberalize Wage-Hour Act

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Speaker Bankhead said today the house would consider on Monday a group of amendments which would "greatly liberalize" the wage-hour act.

They will be voted on under procedure requiring a two-thirds vote for passage but probihiting debate on any changes other than those approved b ythe house labor commtitee.

The committee recommended exemption from the wage-hour act of white collar workers who ear nat least $200 monthly, of small telephone exchanges, of workers in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands and of labor engaged in certain operations connected with first processing of fresh fruits and vegetables.

Senate Passes Bill On Salaries Of Judges

JEFFERSON CITY, June 2—(AP)—The senate passed, 20 to 3, and sent to the governor today a bill to add $1,300 a year to the salaries of circuit judges having more than one county in their judicial district.

Chooses Deportation In Preference To Prison

KANSAS CITY, June 2—(AP)—John A. Myers, who has lived all but two fi his 28 years in the United States, chose deportation to his native Germany to a Kansas prison because "a man who has served in prison can stand discipline."

Myers was sentenced to 10 to 21 years for a Hutchinson, Kas., robbery. Previously he had served a federal sentence for interstate transportation of a stolen automobile. He passed through here today en route to New York.

"I understand everything is different" in Germany, he said. "I am not fearful, however. A man who has served in prison can stand discipline.

"What sort of wages do they pay? What should I say about Hitler? Does anyone speak English, had I better just join the army, can I adjust myself?"

Myers, brought to the United States when two years old, has forgotten his native tongue. His parents separated when he was 11 and he went with his father to the Oklahoma oil fields.

His mother, Mrs. Agness Myers Lynn, with whom he had lived in recent years, got only a glimpse of her son here.

"It will take courage for him to make a man of himself in a strange land," she said. "But I believe it may be the best thing."

Hope Waning For 90 Trapped In Sub

Speed Efforts To Save Ones In Undersea Craft

LONDON, June 2—(AP)—Thirty-three hours after the proud new submarine Thetis went down in the Irish Sea the British admiralty announced tonight that hope of saving 90 men still trapped in the giant undersea craft was "greatly diminishing."

The admiralty statement said: "The stern of HMS Thetis did not reappear as anticipated when the tide slackened at 6 p. m. (noon CST) and an attempt is now being made to lift the stern with pontoons.

"The admiralty regret to state, however, that hope of saving any further lives (beyond the four men saved with Davis lungs) is now diminishing."

LONDON, June 2—(AP)—The British admiralty announced tonight a strong tide had carried the submarine Thetis completely under water and forced temporary suspension of attempts to cut a hole in the stern, which had been exposed, to rescue 90 men.

At the same time the admiralty said it was not clear why use of the Davis escape method had been abandoned with 90 men left in the submarine and after only four had reached safety.

Admiralty officials earlier expressed belief that the Davis escape method had been abandoned to preserve the waning air supply for those still awaiting rescue.

The admiralty statement, although issued after 7 p. m. (noon CST) was based on a report from the scene of operations at 4:50 p. m. (9:50 a. m. CST).

This said a strong tide at that time had caused the submarine "to cant and the stern to go under water." This forced abandonment of attempts to cut a hole in the stern but with the low tide later it was hoped to resume opertaions.

Commenting on the escape of the last two of the four men who left the vessel early today, the admiralty said:

"Those two survivors reported that the remainder of the crew were then about to use the Davis escape appartus and it is not clear at present what had prevented further escapes by this method."

Lack Of Apparatus

Lack of large scale undersea apparatus for rescue, such as the United States navy used successfully in rescuing 33 men from the Squalus forced British naval experts to rely on other methods today in attempting to save the men

Jury Takes Up Affairs At K. C.

KANSAS CITY, June 2—(AP)—A county grand jury turned attention today to city affairs for the first time since a cleanup of the city administration started several weeks ago.

City Manager Eugene C. Zachman and his secretary George Gooch, entered the jury room this morning. Gooch carried records it believed from the city water department.

Investigation by city officials has disclosed the water department paid the John J. Rathford Engineering company $5,000 a month over a seven year period, to survey leaks in the water system.

A suit has been filed by the city to recover the money. Defendants are Rathford, who during that time has been a $140 a month water department employe, and his partners in the engineering company, C. D. Higgins and J. G. Halpin.

The county prosecutor's office today subpoeaned 22 bank and insurance company officials to appear before the grand jury next week, the bank officers were ordered to bring their records of all bank accounts of more than $1,000 as of June 1, 1938.

That German Lard Deal Comes Up Again

The prospect of some sort of a German deal for American lard, of which there is a surplus, keeps coming up. Propably some means will be found to carry this through eventually, for despite nationalistic feeling, despite tariffs, despite exchange difficulties, it is a "natural." Germany desperately needs lard and all kinds of fats. Large stocks of lard are hanging over the American market, depressing the price to the detriment of the farmer and packer. Eventually some way will be found to do something about it.

Last February it was widely rumored, so strongly as to cause price dislocations in the Chicago lard markets, that American co-operative associations were working on such a deal, perhaps preparing to take fence wire or other farm supplies in return on a barter basis. This was soon denied by the cental organizations of the U. S. co-operatives.

This time it is supposed to be large packers, operating under auspices of the Institute of American Meat Packers, who are taking the lead. The only question seems to be: what can Germany supply in exchange for the lard which will not be highly competitive with products of American industry?

Harmonicas and Tyrolean hats would not see mto offer much scope f ora trading basis.

Acceptance of Aski marks seems out of the question, for the United States has officially vetoed any traffic in this "trick" trading medium which has brought so much grief to other American countries which have been forced to accept them.

Every large-scale deal proposed with Germany meets vocal opposition from groups who see nothing wrong in leftist Mexico selling oil to Germany, or in Communist Russia being Germany's best customer. Such people are quite willing to see left-wing countries regard German trade as a business matter, while insisting that the United States regard it as an ideological or sentimental matter. There doesn't seem to be much sense in that.

The whole essence of any such deal with Germany is a matter of smart trading. Certainly it is silly to sit here holding greedily to great surpluses of lard, wheat, and cotton which we do not have wit enough to distribute to our own people, and yet to veto on sentimental ground any plan to send it to countries which badly need it.

The great thing is: what do we take in exchange? Certainly there is no point in exporting surplus lard to help the farmers and packers if goods are taken in exchange which means less work for American artisans. If we can arrange to swap this lard for raw materials or goods either not produced in the United States, or not produced in sufficient quantity, then it would seem a good place to let the natural forces of trade function.

Peace and goodwill certainly lie along the highroad toward wider and more normal trade relations, not along the by-path winding between narrow nationalism and artificial barriers.

Arrested for speeding, a Toledo man said he was hurrying to get to a safety meeting. He learned the lesson, anyhow.

Pennsylvania has put through an anti-fireworks law. A safe law—for the administration. Kids can't vote.

Spurred by the pulitzer prize play, movie studios are rushing pictures on the life of Lincoln. Imagine the sight of three Lincolns eating lunch together at the Brown Derby.

Unredeemed Czechs

Some day it may prove to have been Hitler's great mistake—the seizure of Czechoslovakia. The Rhineland, the Saar, the Sudetenland, even Danzig, perhaps, there is an argument here. All tnese were German in population and spirit.

But Czechoslovakia, despite all the talk of "ancient German living-room," was and is peopled by Czechs and Slovaks. There is evidence that they do not take kindly to the efforts to Germanize them, any more than Italians incorporated into the old Austria-Hungarian empire before the World War responded to similar efforts.

In Poland, in France, and in other countries, refugee Czechs are organizing into Czech legions when the law permits, or joining the armies of those countries when it does not. General Lev Prchala, last Czech governor of Carpathia, hints that should war break out, even the Czechs still under the German fist in the homeland "would know what to do."

Thus it may come to pass that Hitler's great mistake will have been the one in which he violated his own stated principle: that all he wished was to bring into the Reich the adjoining German peoples. The Czech state, a healthy body when it existed by itself, may prove a cancer when absorbed by the body of the Reich.

One Touch Of Nature

Those of us who live in the city are apt to forget the wonder of weather and the vital importance of sun and rain to millions who still live close to the earth.

In the city, it doesn't really matter much whether it rains or shines. A trifling inconvenience, perhaps, some slight change of plan, or some momentary interruption. That is all.

But among people who work on the land and in the earth, rain or not-rain means the difference between the success or failure of a whole year's work.

That is why only those who have lived in the country can fully appreciate the drama of an incident at Kintyre, N. D., the other night when Gov. John Moses was delivering a high school commencement oration. Suddenly, in the midst of his own oratory he stopped, lifted a finger. There was a hush in the school auditorium.

"Listen," said the governor. "Hear that? Isn't it wondeful?"

It was raining. And everyone present, including the speaker himself, knew that nothing he was saying, nothing he could say, equaled in importance the blessed patter of the rain.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — Once every year the Supreme Court of the United States assembles in black silken gowns to pose for a photograph. This solemn occasion was staged very recently in the studio of Harris and Ewing, Capital photographers, where a veteran cameraman arranged the Justices in order of seniority and then straightened their robes, posed their heads, hands and legs.

All the Justices cooperated courteously—except McReynolds, oldest and testiest member of the Court. Several years ago McReynolds prevented the Court from securing a group picture by not showing up at the studio. This time he was present, but stonily refused every request of the photographer.

Finally the cameraman said: "Mr. Justice, you are too rigid. Will you please cross your feet."

McReynolds made no move. Looking grimly ahead, he said nothing and did nothing.

"Mr. Justice McReynolds," repeated the photographer, "cross your feet, please."

Again McReynolds gave no sign that he heard. So the protographer walked over to him, stooped down and started to arrange McReynolds' feet. This time there was prompt and decisive response.

Kicking vigorously at the cameraman and glaring, McReynolds snapped, "No! I will not!"

Note—Fourteen different poses were taken at the sitting. The one released to the newspapers was picked by the Justices, and some of their friends joke that a 5-4 decision was required before they could agree on the official picture.

To See The King

When President Somoza of Nicaragua came to town, government clerks turned out by the thousands. The Government granted a three-hour recess "to those whose services can be spared."

Now another order is going the rounds. It grants a four-hour recess, from 10 to 2 on June 8, so that clerks may see the King and Queen.

In this case, however, there is no mention of "those whose services can be spared." The leave is granted to every government worker in the city.

Wage-Hour Fire

That White House visit of Sidney Hillman, head of the aggressive Amalgamated Clothing Workers, was not the courtesy call which he intimated. The brainy CIO vice-president actually went to see Roosevelt to complain vigorously about the administration of the Wage-Hour Act.

Several weeks earlier, the annual convention of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce had adopted a resolution urging complete repeal of the law on the ground that it was "impractical," and Hillman came fresh from the convention of textile workers which also had voted against the Wage - Hour Administration — from an entirely different angle.

They caustically assailed Administrator Elmer Andrews as a "procrastinator," charged him with "yielding to the pressure of reactionary employers and failing to take active and vigorous steps to raise wages above the 25 cents an hour minimum."

At the bottom of this cross-fire attack are mounting complaints from both sides.

Many employers are disgusted because, while they have conscientiously complied with the law, less scrupulous competitors have violated it with impunity. The workers, in turn, are up in arms because thousands of their complaints have gone unheeded; because committees to formulate wage and hour standards have been set up in only seven industries, with not one wage-hour schedule issued; finally because Andrews recommended a list of amendments to the Act without consulting the unions.

The amendments set up a number of new exemptions which labor vigorously opposes. It contends that the law as it stands already is too limited. Particularly are the unions incensed at Andrews' proposal to exclude Puerto Rice from the operation of the Act. They believe this will make the Territory a sweatshop stronghold.

The Puerto Rico issue is a sore point with labor because of Andrews' dismissal of Robert Claiborne, Puerto Rican Wage-Hour Administrator, when he insisted on strict enforcement of the law there.

Hot-Seat Andrews

Actually Andrews has been sitting on a hot seat for some time. Kindly and cautious, he has tried to avoid the crack-downs of the NRA by following a middle-of-the-road course. Also he has been handicapped by a serious shortage of funds.

Although he had to enforce a law nationwide in scope, Congress started Andrews with an appropriation of only $350,000. For months, therefore, he had to work with a skeleton staff while thousands of violation complaints poured in from both employers and workers.

To date over 15,000 complaints have been filed. To handle them Andrews had had a staff of inspectors recently increased to only 123. Administrative experts estimate that this field staff should number not less than 500. Of the 15,000 complaints, only 1,100 have been acted on, and only 17 submitted to the Justice Department for prosecution.

This shortage of funds not only has blocked effective enforcement but has led to serious personal difficulties. Most these have been quietly ironed out, but several months ago there was such undercover turmoil in the agency that several top officials, among them Paul Sifton, Andrews' executive assistant, were on the verge of resigning.

Andrews himself has been reported looking for another job. Although he was appointed on the recommendation of Secretary Perkins, there have been sharp differences, and a marked coolness has developed between them.

Andrews requested a budget of $3,350,000 for the new fiscal year. The House cut it to $3,173,000 and the final appropriation is now before the Senate. Wheather ampler funds will solve his administrative problems remains to be seen.

Beauty Troubles

If you work for the Government, and have both beauty and brains, better not let anybody discover it.

Miss Mabel A. Sugnet, WPA stenog, won a "Beauty With Brains" contest conducted by a Washington newspaper. She appeared with 24 other contestants on the stage of a local theatre while Senator Tydings of Maryland, Representative Randolph of West Virginia, and Eleanor Powell, the dancer, scrutinized and judged.

Then she answered such question as: Who owns the island of Madagascar? and, Who wrote "Lord Jim?" Reword was a silver loving cup and a trip to the New York World's fair (accompanied by young Representative Randolph, who wanted to go, too).

But when the young prizewinner came back, she found nothing but trouble. There were cold glances at the office. Her superior at WPA rebuked her for being absent, warned that she might lose her job. The atmosphere remains very frigid.

Think British Are Detained By Japs

SHANGHAI, June 2—(Friday)—(AP)—Difficulties of two British diplomatic officers with Japanese army authorities in north China and a Japanese-British dispute at Tientsin today increased tension between Japan and Britain in the Far East.

British embassy officials expressed fear that an officer sent to investigate the detention of Lieutenant Colonel Spear, British military attache, by Japanese at Kalgan had resulted in the second officer's detention also.

The second man, Lieutenant Cooper, left Peiping May 28 under orders to report back at once on Spear's situation, but has not been heard from since.

Japanese military officials at Tientsin handed the British consul general there a demand that the alleged slayer of Cheng Shi-Kang, commissioner of the Japanese-controlled customs administration, be handed over by noon June 7.

Cheng, former counselor of the Chinese embassy in London, was killed last April in the British concession. British authorities have held that no evidence had been produced to link a Chinese in their custody with Cheng's slaying.

Alaskan Volcano Quiets After Spree

SEATTLE, June 2.—(AP)—Volcanic Mount Veniaminof suddenly quieted Thursday after spewing ashes and great tongues of flame into the Alaskan sky.

The coast guard cutter Morris, standing by to evacute whites and natives from the tiny Alaskan peninsula settlement of Perryville, radioed headquarters here the volcano had subsided almost as quickly as it flared into violent activity earlier.

Natives became restless after sharp tremors shook Perryville and the mountain vomited 1,500-foot streamers of flame, while thick sulphurous smoke plumed five miles into the sky.

● SERIAL STORY

DATE WITH DANGER

BY HELEN WORDEN
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday: As Mary Franklin works on the French case, the Duke meets two new victims, Clem Shirley and Jack Burden.

CHAPTER XII

"Miss Clem Shirley live here?" he inquired, as a man opened the door.

Clem, who hadn't got to bed till four that morning, was lying on the chaise longue in her sitting room trying to read the Sunday papers. She made a brilliant picture as she stretched out on the cream taffeta cushions, in her shining gold satin negligee. The sitting room, like herself was vivid and exotic. The walls were a tawny yellow and the furniture Venetian red. A very good 15th century Italian drawing done in red chalk hung over a handsome black oak Medieval cabinet, and on either side of the hooded plaster fireplace were Italian primitives, one an Andrea del Sarto, the other, a Bellini Madonna. Jim Shirley, Clem's father, had gone in for primitives when he became president of the International Brake Company. This private apartment on the top floor of the Shirley home was his gift to his daughter on her eighteenth birthday. He had hung two of the best pictures in his collection in her living room.

This afternoon a knock on her door provoked an eager, "Who is it?" followed by, "Oh, come in," as the servant timidly entered with the florist's box.

"They must be big flowers," she exclaimed, jumping up as her eyes lit on the huge package, "or there must be many of them. Open the box, Bailey, and give me the card."

Her expression changed to one of excitement as she slit the tiny white envelope and glanced at the signature. The handwriting was large and bold, yet at the same time immature. "What about cocktails this afternoon? Duke Martin. Call me at the Dove."

* * *

SHE was surprised to get the flowers and see the signature but still more surprised at the excitement they produced in her. Why should she care?

"Where shall I put them, Miss Clem?" asked the footman as he lifted up a great mass of American Beauty roses.

Clem wondered whether she ought to send them back. The boys she knew didn't go in for American Beauties. Her eyes turned a little uncomfortably from the bowl of white gardenias which Jack Burden had given her to Duke's roses.

"Put them in that black crystal vase by the fireplace," she said. "And see that they have plenty of water."

Clem searched the telephone book for the Dove's number. She read the card again. How could she accept that invitation? But then why shouldn't she, if she wanted to? Jack wouldn't mind—he knew she loved him.

If she had stopped to answer her own questions she would never have reached for the telephone. She acted quickly in order to be traitor to herself. "Is Mr. Martin there? Oh, hello! Yes, I should like to come. I was just going to thank you. They're marvelous! What? Yes, I'll be there in half an hour."

She sang as she dressed. How exciting life was! The appearance of her maid interrupted her thoughts.

"I couldn't have done so well, Mademoiselle," said Marie casting critical eyes over Clem's toilet. She looked like a precocious but beautiful child in her smartly fitted black velveteen suit with her brown curls just showing beneath a crazy little black velvet turban.

* * *

TWENTY minutes later she was facing Duke across a table in the tap room of the Dove. His dark blue serge, though carefully tailored, served to heighten the impression of powerful muscles beneath. This pugilistic strength seemed oddly at variance with the white silk handkerchief neatly tucked in his breast pocket and the gold link bracelet watch on his left wrist. Clem thought there was a sinister fascination in this incongruity.

"Have you been breaking any hearts today?" he inquired with heavy humor.

"I haven't had time. When your flowers came, I was still recovering from last night."

He raised his glass. "There's something about you I can't resist." Clem flushed under the ardor of his eyes. She felt them stripping her.

"You don't have to be sentimental," she said, "you're interesting enough as yourself. Tell me about your life. It has had exciting moments."

She thrilled with the intimacy of the occasion as Martin lit a cigaret and blew a few smoke rings into the air. She and Duke and the bartender were the only people in the tap-room. On Sundays the crowd did not begin to gather until after six. The place had the brooding quiet of impending danger. Lit only by a few soft sidelights, Clem could imagine the room being the scene of exciting happenings, she was vague about what they might be, but she knew Duke would be mixed up in all of them.

He was studying her face. "You might call my life exciting," he said. "To me it has all been part of the game."

* * *

SKILLFULLY he sketched in his beginning, telling only the side that would stir her emotionally. He spoke of his section, Hell's Kitchen.

"A guy couldn't live in that neck of the woods if he knew what fear meant. You had to be a killer, but that didn't mean you weren't soft-hearted. In between fights my gang was usually rounding up the stray dogs and cats of the neighborhood and dragging them into corner saloons for a feed. That's how we got our name, The Animal Crackers. We didn't mind the kidding. We could take it. We had the upper hand."

"How did you get it?" Clem's elbows were resting on the table, her chin cupped in both hands as she hung on Duke's words.

"By shooting One-eared Mike. He was a tough guy, who lived near me." Martin snapped a finger at the bartender. "Bring us two more Scotch and sodas, Jim."

"Go on," urged Clem.

"We locked horns in a game on 11th Avenue. He wanted a share of my winnings. I couldn't see it. I socked him. That called for a fight. We didn't have guns so we used fists. My gang gave Mike's a devil of a beating. They had to run for their life. Mike was rubbed out."

"What does that mean?"

"Nicked. Punctured. Killed."

"Who killed him?"

"I did."

Clem took a drink. "You must like danger."

Martin smiled. "It's a business. I'll tell you more another time. What about getting hold of Jack Burden and showing the two of you the town?"

Clem hesitated. Wasn't she glad he'd suggested asking Jack? Their tastes were the same. He always shared her pleasures. Was she ashamed to have him find her at the Dove at that hour talking with the Duke? She had done nothing wrong.

"That's a swell idea. We were going to a concert but anything you show us will be much more thrilling. Where will you take us?"

Martin smiled. His self-complacency was magnificent. The little moth had been attracted by the light. With the cunning of a dramatist withholding the surprise until the curtain, he said, "You will learn after dinner. Shall I call Burden and ask him to join us here?"

Designate June Dairy Month

State Advances Rapidly In Its Dairy Products

JEFFERSON CITY, June 2—Recognizing that milk and its products to be the leader as a producer of farm income during 1938, and that milk as the largest single source of farm revenue, which, when consumed as fluid milk, cream, butter, ice cream, cheese and dry milk, adds aproximately three and one-half billions of dollars to the national income annually Governor Lloyd C. Stark today called upon all Missourians to join him in observing June as "National Dairy Month."

Governor Stark, in discussing the state's growing dairy industry, declared that "Missouri is now one of the leading dairy production and manufacturing states, our natural resources being admirably adapted for successful dairying, producing high quality milk and milk products through many milk plants, creameries, cheese factories and ice cream plants, including evaporated milk and dry milk plants. The comparisons with other states are based upon 1937 dairy statistics.

"Missouri ranked fifth in the manufacture of creamery butter, the 1937 total of 79,230,000 pounds being exceeded by the output of 1938, which required more than seventy million pounds of butterfat bought of our farmers for $18,000,000.

"Missouri's cheese industry has advanced in quantity from ten carloads in 1925 to 406 carloads, now ranking ninth among the states in volume, and among the first in quality. In soft cheeses, Missouri is now tenth, with 4,191,000 pounds requiring 32,000,000 pounds of skim milk.

"In evaporated milk, Missouri ranks eighth, manufacturing 65,139,000 pounds. The estimated annual production of ice cream is now 12,000,000 gallons, ranking tenth among the states.

"In the manufacture of dry or powdered milk, Missouri ranks ninth, with 14,107,000 pounds of dry milk solids, which required 155,000,000 pounds of fluid skim milk.

"Missouri ranks ninth in the manufacture of casein, with a volume of 762,000 pounds, using 22,800,000 pounds of skim milk.

"Missouri is rapidly becoming a top-ranking dairy state, during the past two years having carried forward very effectively a series of quality improvement campaigns in the fluid milk, creamery butter, ice cream, cheese, evaporated milk and dry milk industries, which definitely improved the average quality of the dairy products now available to the consuming public.

"The success of these quality improvement campaigns is attributed to the harmonious and united co-operation of the state department of agriculture, state board of health, federal food and drug administration, Missouri dairy industries council, Missouri butter institute, Missouri milk and Ice cream institute, Missouri association of cheese manufacturers, the dairy husbandry and extension service of the College of Agriculture, and the pure bred dairy cattle associations.

"Further recognizing that milk and milk products are among the cheapest of all foods now available to our consumers, I do recommend in behalf of the entire dairy industry, that, during June, 'National Dairy Month,' our people use larger quantities of fluid milk and milk products, of which there are bountiful supplies available in Missouri."

ABLE TO RESUME WORK SINCE RETURN OF GOOD HEALTH

KruGon Relieved Stiffness And Soreness In Joints And Muscles; Headaches, Dizzy Spells In The Past; Stomach Regulated; Can Work All Day Without Return Of Former Trouble.

"KruGon is the family medicine at our house," said Mr. Earl Kircher, a highly respected local carpenter who resides at Nevada, Mo., (near Sedalia) in a recent statement reaching the McFarland and Robinson Drug Store, this city.

MR. EARL KIRCHER

"During the terrible hot weather of 1936 I became overheated, suffering a general breakdown in health. My stomach was affected and immediately following every meal I would have dreadful dizzy spells, sour stomach and indigestion attacks. My muscles and joints were stiff and sore which, of course, made work an impossibility. I would have sickening headaches so bad I thought I could not endure them much longer. I was continually seeking means of relief through various remedies but none of them seemed to have the power to reach my stubborn case . . . I was met with repeated disappointments. Then I began noticing the KruGon testimonials ads in the newspaper and thought that there might be partial relief for me when it was doing so much for many of my friends right here in Sedalia. I bought a box of these little red capsules and soon began noticing a change in my condition."

"KruGon was even more than I had anticipated in restoring my health," continued Mr. Kircher. "It is almost unbelievable but I am now able to work hard all day without the return of my former trouble. I have no more of those terrible headaches and dizzy spells. The awful cramping, soreness and stiffness have left my muscles and joints and I am not hindered in handling my carpenter tools. My stomach has been regulated too and I can enjoy my meals without any after distress. My foods no longer sour and indigestion attacks are memories of the past. I am feeling better in every way since giving KruGon the opportunity of proving its proclaimed merits in my obstinate case. I am continually telling others of the marvelous action of this laxative-tonic and trust they may receive these same good benefits through the use of KruGon."

KruGon is sold by the McFarland and Robinson Drug Company, 104 West Main St., this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns.

Nova Stops Baer In Eleventh Round

Technical Kayo Marks End Of Trail For Madcap Max

By Sid Feder

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, June 2.—(AP)—As stubborn as an army mule and just as tough to handle, Lou Nova shook off Max Baer's "Sunday punches" last night and beat the former heavyweight king into bloody submission in 11 brutal rounds in this huge ballpark.

His face dripping blood, his mouth and nose cut, Baer, the madcap playboy who has clowned his way through fistic heights for a decade, came to the end of the trail with a technical knockout defeat at 1 minute, 21 seconds of the 11th heat. Referee Frank Fullam halted the proceedings with the announcement the blood from Max's cut mouth appeared to be choking him.

And Nova, shaken up in the early rounds, once so confused from Max's right hand punches that he walked to the wrong corner at the end of one session, successfully rocketed with the victory to a shot at the heavyweight championship in September.

But it wasn't so much the fact that the victory shot him to the forefront of the heavyweight ranks that was most impressive, nor that he eliminated the merry madcap from the picture definitely and conclusively. It was his gameness in coming on from those fearful right hand shots for which Max is famous; taking them and walking right in with both fists flailing—unstoppable and determined that nothing, not even the awful Baer artillery, could stand in his way.

Nova Is Outweighed

Lou, the Alameda, Calif., ex-collegian who has come a long way up the road in the past two years, largely through his defeat of Tommy Farr last winter, spotted the curly-haired husky from Livermore, Calif., 8½ pounds—he weighed 202 to Max's 210½—and even that didn't stand in his way.

He waded in from start to finish, connected with a spear-like left jab and a short right chop countless times, and, even when hurt, continued to force the fighting. At the finish, his left ear swollen from Baer's right hand smashes, his right hand injured, and his right eye cut, Nova was still coming on and pitching his punches.

Until the end, Nova held a slight lead through the ten full rounds the fight went. On the Associated Press score card, he had six rounds to four for Maxie. Two heats, the fourth and fifth, were taken away from Nova for hitting low. The seventh was taken from Maxie for clouting Lou after the bell.

Nova Hurt Badly

This punch almost did for Nova, incidentally. He staggered away from it, wandered aimlessly in the center of the ring for just a moment, and then was called to his corner by his handlers.

Through the first three rounds, the pace was terrific. Lou took the first with a furious body attack which started Max to puffing. Max held an upperhand in the second, shaking up Nova with three smashing right hand, but Lou just wagged his head once or twice, and came right on back as though he was enjoying it. At the finish, he was peppering Baer's mid-section with both hands swinging and Max appeared considerably winded.

The third was all Lou. The blonde belter walked in with left and right to the head, and once forced Maxie to hang on.

Baer's Face Bloody

In the fourth, the blood started to spurt from both gladiators. A long left bounced off Lou's right eye and slashed the flesh just under the eyebrow. Nova came back and drew blood from Baer's nose and mouth with a furious two-handed onslaught.

From there on, Max spit blood in every round as Lou, taking advantage of these wounds, worked both hands to the injured spots.

It was in the fourth and fifth both that Nova, showed signs of wear and tear from the pace, swung low punches and was penalized in each case with loss of the round.

The sixth was Baer's best round. His overhand right-hand haymakers which he brought from Canarsie, smacked against Lou's ear time after time, and at the finish of the heat, Lou was so staggered he started toward a neutral corner until his seconds, one of whom was Jim Braddock, the man who took the title away from Baer some years back, summoned him to his seat.

Baer-Nova Fight Was Televised

NEW YORK, June 2.—(AP)—The National Broadcasting Company today estimated that approximately 20,000 persons watched and heard the first television of a major outdoor heavyweight battle last night when Lou Nova won a technical knockout over Max Baer.

A portable television transmitter set up at the edge of the press section in Yankee Stadium televised the action over station W2XBS. Reception throughout the New York area was described as clear and bright.

Baer's thick mop of hair, tumbling about as Nova jabbed his face, was easily discernible on the 8 by 10 inch screens. Blows hammered in by both likewise came across distinctly.

Last night's televising of the Baer-Nova fight may have been the first time that the electric camera paid a visit to a regularly scheduled heavyweight scrap in a New York outdoor arena, but it wasn't the first time for boxing pictures through the air.

On several occasions NBC has set up a temporary ring in its Radio City studios and put on exhibition matches that looked a great deal like the real thing. Nova and Patsy Perroni were three-round exhibitionists.

Looking at a fight over the air gives one almost the reaction of being at the ringside in miniature.

Joe Louis Next

Lou Nova, above, won the right to meet Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship of the world sometime next fall by his defeat of former champion Max Baer Thursday night.

• The Sport Roundup

By Eddie Brietz

NEW YORK, June 2—(AP)—Those who didn't make it missed a whale of a fight. . . . Mike Jacobs said: "Looks like I'll have to take the big ones out of New York." . . . Signor Galento was there and gave the fotogs a lesson in professional courtesy . . . . While Baer and Nova tore into each other, Tony politely refused to pose with his thumb firmly grasped between the thumb and forefinger of his left hand.. . . . Baer tried to look stern and determined while they were tying on his gloves, but before the ceremony was over he had either bowed or winked at everybody in the gallery. . . . That will give you an idea of the size of the crowd.

Noah A Crepe Hanger

Webster says "Nova" a new star, which flashes up to increase its brilliance, etc., by 10,000 times in a week or two but usually short lived. Lou says the last part "aint so."

While Galento and Louis were in there being introduced, one guy said: "This is a history making scene, gents. . . . " It is the only time you'll ever see Galento in the same ring with Louis and walk out." . . . Max Marek, one of the few lads who beat Louis in the amateurs, took a licking in one of the prelims. . . .

Here And There:

Around here they keep referring to the Goodall round robin and the "Guldhal round robin." . . . Don't miss the centennial edition of the Baseball magazine — a honey. . . . Who can remember when a Yankee losing streak lasted longer than one game?

Harper Gault, Rock Hill (S. C.) Herald: "This is the home of business men golfers. . . . The boys raised $136 to send Lester Reynolds to the National Open. . . But there are strings attached. . . . If Lester wins, he's got to return to Rock Hill and give every contributor a free lesson." . . . A St. Louis fan sent Johnny Mize and Joe Medwick 1839 pennies to help them get out of their batting slump, but it didn't work.

Guldahl Is 6 To 1 Favorite

NEW YORK, June 2—(AP)—The bookmakers have made big Ralph Guldahl a 6-1 favorite to win the third straight yea rthe U. S. Open Golf championship at the Philadelphia country club next week. Ralph feels they are justified in doing so.

"I'll win it or at least be in the running all the way," he said today before teeing off on the second round of the 126-hole, $5,000 Goodall round-robin tournament.

"That Philadelphia course will be tough, and it will play long. I went around it three times this week — in 68, one under par, 70 and 73 — and I have a hunch 284 will be good enough to win. That's eight strokes over par, but it's still not too much.

"They tell me lots of fellows tighten up in the open. I don't, maybe I'm lucky, but I play even better then. And if I have to come from behind, that's even more of a help.

Guldahl, matched with Olin Dutra and Ben Hogan for his second round in the Goodall round-robin, was in an advantageous position. With a plus 5 showing for yesterday's first round, he was only six points behind Sam Snead, the leader and last year's winner.

Merchants Beat Firemen, 3-0; Schrick Stars

Holds Kansas City Team To Four Hits; Sedalia Avenges Previous Defeat

Behind the four-hit pitching of Al Schrick, the Sedalia Merchants avenged a previous loss to the Kansas City Firemen by defeating them Thursday night at Liberty Park diamond, 3-0, in a game that was a tight pitchers' duel all the way.

Schrick came through with 14 strike-outs. Griffin, the Firemen hurler, whiffed 15 Sedalians, but weakened in several pinches. He struck out 12 in the first four innings, but also allowed two runs during that time.

The visitors gathered four hits while the Merchants made five, bunching three of them in the second to push two runs across the plate. Carver singled, Lobaugh smashed a three bagger to right scoring the runner, and Taylor doubled bringing in Lobaugh.

Griffith Starts Out Fast

Neither team got a safe blow in the first frame with Griffith marking up three consecutive strike-outs.

The Sedalians scored another run in the fifth stanza when Taylor reached first on an error by the first baseman, and went to second on a sacrific by Schrick. Overfelt singled after Light had fanned, bring Taylor in.

The visitors were off to a good start in the sixth, but to no avail as pitcher Schrick tightened up. Haire singled and went to second when Wicklund walked with no one out. The runners advanced to second and third when the ball got away from catcher Sumner, but the next three men up, Sceiber, Pullins and George, went down swinging.

Disputed Play

During the Merchants big second inning, there was a dispute over the play on Lobaugh at third base, when he tripled. The ball was in ahead of the runner, but both the third and the second base umpires called Lobaugh safe because the third baseman had not put the ball on him.

The Merchants' next game will be on Sunday when they meet the Merchants of Marshall.

Hope And Raye Riot In 'Never Say Die'

Bob Hope's fourth picture with Martha Raye in little more than a year is "Never Say Die,' the new comedy-farce, which Paramount will show today and Saturday at the Liberty theatre. Hope and Miss Raye first worked together in "The Big Broadcast of 1938," then repeated in "College Swing" and "Give Me a Sailor." Hope himself has been seen recently in "Thanks for the Memory." "Never Say Die," a farce of the screwball variety, plots the adventures of a rich hypochondriac who, thinking he has only a month to live, marries a damsel in distress to save her from another suitor. In their supporting cast, Hope and Miss Raye have Alan Mowbray, Andy Devine and Gale Sondergaard. Elliott Nugent directed the film.

Gene Autry in "Springtime In The Rockies" At Uptown Theatre Today And Saturday

Gene Autry and his side-kick, Smiley Burnett, come to the Uptown theatre today and tomorrow in "Springtime In The Rockies," another rip-roarin' musical western. The picture is just as splendid and it deals with the adventures of four agricultural college cowgirls who journey out to the wild and wooly west to teach dyed-in-the-wool cow punchers how to punch cattle. Co-feature on the program is "Cocoanut Grove," with Fred MacMurry and Harriet Hilliard in the romantic lead of this peppy musical, supported by such top-notchers as Ben Blue, Rufe Davis, the Yacht Club Boys, Harry Owens and his Royal Hawaiian Orchestra and Dorothy Howe. "Cocoanut Grove" tells the story of the beginning of a swing band, where they come from and how they originate is deftly told with a plot that concerns itself with the struggles of a young band leader to make his mark at the world-famed Cocoanut Grove in Hollywood.

IT'S TRUE!

By Wiley Padan

New York, N. Y.—"IT'S TRUE! W. S. Van Dyke II, director of M-G-M's 'It's a Wonderful World', has a trophy room in his home completely filled with souvenirs gathered during his trips to Africa, Alaska and the South Seas", says Wiley Padan . . . "Strangely, Van Dyke doesn't like to travel and avoids location trips whenever possible (he made 'Trader Horn', 'Eskimo' and 'White Shadows of the South Seas') . . . although he braved the jungles and peril of the Arctic, he is afraid of moths! . . . and another thing, Van Dyke never gives or asks for odds when he makes a bet of any description."

Baer Badly Beaten; Didn't Know When Fight Ended

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, June 2.—(AP)—A badly beaten, somewhat bewildered and dead tired Baer was half carried into his dressing room and flopped wearily on a rubbing table.

His handlers kindly told him he was beating Lou Nova when they stopped the fight in the 11th round, but they weren't kidding old Maxie. He wasn't clear as to what exactly happened, but he knew the end of the road had come for the erstwhile merry madcap.

"I just couldn't get going in there," he said. "I had him knocked out twice, but couldn't get in the finishing touch. I must have swallowed two gallons of blood. I was all choked up in the last few rounds."

Baer Badly Beaten

Baer presented a sorry spectacle. Both eyes were almost closed. There was a bad cut on his lip. His body was red from Nova's steady fire.

Baer was so groggy he didn't know when the fight ended. "Did they stop it in the sixth or seventh?" he asked.

"I'm sorry so many guys lost dough on me, but I'm glad I went out on my feet. They can't say Maxie took a count on his back."

In sharp contrast to the gloom of the Baer quarters, joy reigned unconfined in the Nova dressing room, two doors down the hall.

"Is the sound man ready?" the grinning Nova wanted to know as he stormed in accompanied by his admirers. Then he launched into an oration in which Baer was roundly congratulated "for his great showing" before promoter Mike Jacobs appeared and abruptly stopped the sound machines.

Nova Defies Louis

Except for a cut over the right eye, Nova was unmarked. Between slaps on the back, he shouted defiance to the Messrs. Joe Louis, Tony Galento and anyone else in sight.

"I'd have knocked him out sooner, but I hurt my right hand in the third," Nova said. "Max didn't hurt me with a single punch. At that, I believe he can hit as hard as Louis. Baer can really pour it in there with his right. This was my hardest fight, all right." He and Baer will remain here a few days before returning to California.

Business Men Seek Revising Of Wagner Act

labor suggestions. Hopkins said that concessions were "not necessarily warranted" in the case of such problems as collective bargaining.

During the hour-long press conference, Hopkins said there was not as much difference of opinion between business men and administration leaders about collective bargaining as was popularly supposed.

The secretary said the business men used part of the time to tell the President how their own businesses were invariably doing better than a year ago and what their own operating problems were.

The chamber of commerce witness before the house committee was Ellsworth C. Alvord, vice chairman of the organization's committee on federal finance. His proposal included a recommendation for a specific credit of $2,000 to reduce the corporation tax on small incomes.

The present law levies a 12 1-2 per cent tax on small corporations with the rate advancing to 16 per cent as the income increases to a maximum of $25,000. Corporations with an income of more than $25,000 are subjected to the undistributed profits tax, under which they pay 16 1-2 per cent if all their profits are disbursed as dividends to stockholders and 19 per cent if profits are retained in the corporate treasury. Partial disbursement in dividends calls for rates between 16 1-2 and 19 per cent.

Both treasury and congressional tax experts have been studying the question of revising this system in the interest of removing levies considered obstacles to business improvement.

One plan calls for repeal of the undistributed profits levy, modification of various other taxes bearing on corporations and a flat corporate tax of 22 per cent. Another said to be in favor in the senate finance committee calls for somewhat similar repeals and modifications but a flat tax of 18 per cent.

The chamber of commerce spokesman appeared before the committee at a time when a meeting between President Roosevelt and a group of top-flight business leaders had given vigorous new impetus to discussion of business improvement.

Discuss Labor Act

The President met eight industrialists at the White House last night. Means of breaking the log-jam of investment capital, it was understood, provided a major topic of conversation.

Persons close to Secretary Hopkins said the group also discussed broad aspects of the national labor relations act, the state of business and the international situation. They asserted the business men presented no definite program or platform.

The labor act, which was one of the topics, is one of the few new deal acts which the commerce department's business advisory council has attacked publicly.

A year ago Charles R. Hook, one of last night's conferees, who was then chairman of a council sub-committee on labor problems, took to the White House a five-point plan for amending the act, but council sources said the group had not adopted any labor act reports since then. A new report was said to be in preparation.

Other Proposals Made

Alvord's program included in addition to the undistributed profits and 15-per cent recommendations these points:

(1) Provision for a carry-over of net business losses for three years.

(2) Simplification of the individual capital gains provision, eliminating distinction between assets held 18 and 24 months and, substituting a shorter holding period.

(3) Treatment of long term capital gains and losses of corporations as ordinary gains and losses.

(4) An annual declaration of capital stock value, beginning with the current year.

(5) Permission for affiliated groups to file consolidated returns.

(6) Elimination of double taxation by exempting all intercorporate dividends from tax, and excluding corporate dividends from individual normal tax.

(7) remedying a few of the existing defects in the so-called technical or administrative provisoins of the present law.

Dine At White House

The business men dined at the White House last night, with Hopkins at the head of the table, before talking informally with the chief executive.

Mr. Roosevelt was prevented from eating with them by a sinus infection, which kept him from his desk Wednesday and Thursday.

No one present would discuss the conversation afterward, but the investment or "risk capital" idea has been uppermost in the business analyses of federal officials and business men alike for many weeks.

Secretary Morgenthau of the treasury said a few days ago that minor changes in the tax laws coax some of the nation's idle dollars into productive service, which would create private work for some of the 3,000,000 persons on WPA.

Something of the scope of the White House talk was indicated by the personnel of the participants.

They were W. Averell Harriman, chairman of the Union Pacific railroads; Edward R. Stettininus, Jr., chairman of United States Steel Corporation; Charles R. Hook, president of American Rolling Mills Company; A. D. Whiteside, president of Dun and Bradstreet; J. F. Fogarty, president of the North American Company (utility holding system); Carle C. Conway, chairman of Continental Can Company; John D. Biggers, president of Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company, and Gano Dunn, president of the J. G. White Engineering Corporation.

In the background was a picture of unemployment whose relief cost has been the major factor in continued federal deficits, while at the same time the nation's banks groaned with an unparalleled supply of $4,3000,000,000 of idle money—money not even earing the low interest rates of conservative securities.

Child Born Dead To Mrs. Roosevelt

BOSTON, June 2—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt made known today that a child was born dead to her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Roosevelt, wife of the youngest son of the President.

The child arrived "prematurely" at the Lying-In hospital of the Richardson House, Mrs. Roosevelt said. She said that the mother was in "fine condition."

The President's wife, who arrived here last night after suddenly cancelling all her engagements said she would visit the hospital today.

John Roosevelt, she added, was "naturally disappointed" by the premature birth.

The society wedding of the couple in Nahant last June was attended by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

The arrival of the grandchild was not anticipated until July, and Mrs. Roosevelt had announced that the former Ann Lindsay Clarke would be unable to attend the reception to the king and queen.

Nigro To Trial In Narcotics Case

KANSAS CITY, June 2—(AP)—Angelo (Bossie) Nigro, a henchman in Tom Pendergast's Democratic machine, was taken to federal court today for trial on a narcotic act violation indictment in connection with the widespread operation of a big illicit drug ring here.

The government charges he was a lieutenant in the ring headed by Angelo Donnici and that it did an annual business of $12,000,000. Donnici recently was convicted on a similar charge and awaits sentence and trial on other indictments for his activities.

William (Sonny) Meehan who the government charges aided Nigro in sales to narcotic addicts was up for trial on the same charge today in Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves court.

Nigro carried a deputy constable's commission when arrested and until last February 1 was on the city payroll at $2,296 a year as a sanitary inspector. He was an aide of Justice of the Peace Gil P. Bourk, a leader in the Pendergast machine. Pendergast now is in Leavenworth penitentiary serving 15 months for income tax evasion.

The jury for the trial of Nigro and Meehan was completed at noon.

Statement Of Moseley Out

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The Dies committee has rejected as anti-semitic a prepared statement with which Major General George Van Horn Moseley, retired, climaxed two days of denunciation of communism and "international Jewry."

The statement, Rep. Dempsey (D-NM) asserted late yesterday, contained "not a single sentence dealing with un-American activities." He moved that it be stricken from the record, and after a short conference, the committee agreed.

Moseley, called for questioning about a campaign against a purported plot to overthrow the government, had insisted repeatedly that he be permitted to read his own statement of the dangers confronting the nation. Finally the committee agreed to hear a limited version.

Reading in a sonorous, oratorical manner instead of his customary high-pitched voice, Moseley declared Jews maintain "a state within a state." His statement asserted that they cannot pay allegiance to both "international Jewry and the United States," and that they are fomenting international war and domestic revolution.

Moseley's testimony ended, for the time being, the committee's hearings. Chairman Dies (-Tex) is now at his home in Texas, and prior to his departure he indicated no more sessions would be held until August.

King And Queen Visit Vast Park

By FRANK H. KING

EDMONTON, Alberta, June 2.—(AP)—The capital of Alberta, gate city to the vast Arctic spaces which King George says holds much of the future of Canada, is host to their Britannic majesties this afternoon.

From Jasper, world's largest National Park, the King and Queen Elizabeth were to arrive at 3:30 p. m. (4:30 p. m. CST).

A drive about the city, a reception at the legislature and a government dinner were the program. Edmonton claims the distinction of the world's greatest air freight port, and to show the royal visitors how the north is being developed three airplanes were put on exhibition—one on wheels, one on skiis and one on pontoons.

The King and Queen rested yesterday in a luxurious log cabin which costs non-royal patrons $125 a day. Last night they slept in the cabin attended by only two persons, their personal servants—a unique experience for the royal pair who call huge Buchingham Palace in London their home.

The cabin, however, was a deluxe one—five guest bedrooms, living room, dining room and kitchen. The Queen showed much interest in inspecting the kitchen.

A part of the day was given over to a ten-mile drive to Maligne Canyon and a long walk during which their majesties were busy with their movie camera.

Later they took some pictures of wild deer outside the lodge and recorded the antics of a bear cub peeking around a big tree while the mother bear stood guard.

Alumni For Nadal Retiring

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 2.—(AP)—A committee of Drury College Alumni which has been investigating conditions at the college for several weeks will recommend to the college's board of trustees tonight that Dr. Thomas W. Nadel, college president, be retired.

At a mass meeting of 110 alumni last night, the committee, appointed to determine "what, if anything, is wrong with Drury," reported on its investigations and presented the following resolution, which was adopted:

"It is our opinion and recommendation, in view of our findings, that the best interests of Drury College would be served by the retirement of Dr. T. W. Nadel as president, and we so recommend to the board of trustees."

The regular spring meeting of the board of trustees is set for tomorrow. At that time, the board is expected to consider the alumni desolution.

O. K. Armstrong, former state legislator, who is chairman of the alumni committee, said surveys of alumni, faculty and students of Drury showed a majority favoring Nadal's retirement.

Dissatisfaction with Dr. Nadal's administration has been expressed frequently in alumni and student gatherings during the last several years, but no bill of particulars has ever been presented.

Dr. Nadal, informed before last night's meeting of the alumni committee's recommendation, pointed out that efforts to oust him have been going on intermittently for 15 years.

"If I were going to resign—and I'm not saying that I am—I should feel obliged to announce it to my board of trustees, first, and not to the general public," Dr. Nadal said.

Blind Workers Be Out Of Jobs

ST. LOUIS, June 2—(AP)-About 115 blind workers employed by the Missouri Commission for the Blind will lose their jobs tomorrow because of lack of state funds, Mrs. Mary E. Ryder, executive director of the commission, announced today.

In addition, about 30 staff employees, including blind and sighted persons, will be out of work. Their salaries for May were due yesterday but they received no money, Mrs. Ryder said.

The blind workers make brooms, mops and sewing articles in shops maintained by the commission or in their homes. The state supplies the raw materials and the workers are paid from proceeds of the sale of the finished products.

Mrs. Ryder said the senate amended an appropriations bill to provide that money for the commission should come from the state blind pension fund instead of from general revenue. A conference committee from the house has accepted the amendment.

The blind pension fund no longer has a surplus to support the commission in its aid to the handicapped, Mrs. Ryder said. Because of that, State Auditor Forrest Smith has ordered the commission to stop its work. It had been operating since the first of the year under an emergency appropriation.

Ham Supper For B And P W Club

Twenty-seven members and guests attended the business and social meeting of the Sedalia Business and Professional Women's club at the home of Mrs. Louise Orear, in Longwood, Thursday night.

A ham supper, prepared and served by Mrs. Fred Kueck was very much enjoyed, and was followed by a short business session. Miss Hazel Palmer, club president, gave information on the national convention to be held in Kansas City in July.

Hope Waning For 90 Trapped In Sub

still trapped in the submarine Thetis.

An admiralty officer said the British navy had no rescue chamber like the United States navy's diving bells and that he believed the United States was the only navy of the world equipped with such apparatus.

The Thetis, like all British submarines, is equipped with Davis escape apparatus, similar to the United States navy's Momsen lungs, designed to permit men to escape from the ship individually and bob up to the surface with the aid of oxygen tanks.

The Thetis has two escape chambers, one fore and one aft, but only the latter is useable in the present emergency.

Impedes Rescue Efforts

BIRKENHEAD, England, June 2—(AP)—The sea closed over Britain's 265-foot mud bound submarine Thetis today, with 90 men aboard weakening from dwindling air supply. Rescue efforts were impeded.

For hours, an 18-foot section of the stern was visible above water and rescue crews sought to cut a hole in the hull to permit fresh air to enter. But a relentless tide swept the stern beneath the water.

With the air in the submarine being used up, rescue of the men apparently depended on the success of the effort to cut a hole in the stern through which fresh air might be pumped first and the men possibly brought to the surface later.

They had been trapped since 1:40 p. m. (6:40 a. m. CST) yesterday when the Thetis submerged in Liverpool bay in a test dive before being delivered to the British navy.

Four of the 94 men aboard when the sleek new submarine dived into the mud in the Irish sea yesterday had come to the surface strapped in oxygen rescue masks.

But admiralty officials expressed belief the Davis "lung" escape had been abandoned to preserve the waning air supply for those still awaiting rescue.

The fore part of the Thetis was flooded.

Latest reports, however, said all still were alive and had sufficient air to last until about midnight (5 p. m. CST).

Observers returning from the scene late today said the stern of the Thetis no longer was visible from the air even though it was almost low tide.

Steel cylinders filled with compressed air had been lashed to her stern.

Rescue efforts were speeded up on the outside.

The number still imprisoned was placed at 90 when the admiralty announced this afternoon that four naval officers not previously listed, were aboard, making a total of 94 persons in the submarine at the time of the accident.

In addition to the four officers and the 58 officers and men of the Thetis' crew, it said, there were 26 men from Cammell Laird, Ltd., her builders; three employes of Vickers-Armstrongs., Ltd., engine manufacturers; one pilot and two civilian caterers.

The admiralty disclosed that the forward part of the submarine, including the forward escape hatch, was flooded. All but 18 feet of the tail was submerged.

Admiralty experts explained that the Davis escape system probably had been suspended because each time it is used it lessens that amount of air in the submarine and also lets in a small amount of water.

One way or another, admiralty officials were confident all would be saved, and until a decision was reached about attempting a mass rescue, officers and men were ordered to escape two at a time in their oxygen masks—The Davis "lung" device.

Sighted By Destroyer

The destroyer Brazen first sighted the Thetis' stern at 8:20 a. m. (1:29 a. m. CST) far out in Liverpool Bay and soon small, flat-bellied rowboats let down from a ring of warships bobbed around the big gray tail. Experts clambered up her sides and tapped out reassuring message to the men below.

First to reach the surface were Capt. H. P. Koram, commander of the fifth British submarine flotilla, and Lieut. H. G. Woods. They had climbed a steel ladder into the submarine's aft air lock and fastened on their Davis "lungs" waiting for equalization of pressure which would permit them to escape.

The "lung" apparatus looks something like a gas mask. Thick goggles cover the wearer's eyes, pincers close his nose and a wide covering fits over the mouth with a tube carrying oxygen from a container strapped to the man's chest.

Messages tapped through the submarine's thick walls told Oram and Wood when to quit the escape chamber. Their position was indicated by a burst of bubbles on the surface. both ascended safely and were taken aboard the destroyer Brazen.

An hour or so later Chief Stoker Arnold and F. Shaw, a member of the crew, came to the surface in the same way.

It was estimated there was a sufficient air supply in the submarine to last until 1:40 a. m. Saturday (6:40 CST Friday).

It was believed low tide this morning had exposed the submarine's tail after warships and royal airforce planes had searched for the vessel throughout the night.

Physicians were hurried to the spot and equipment for pumping air into the craft was on its way.

Lloyd's announced three additional tugs had been dispatched to the scene, 30 miles west of Liverpool, to see if it was possible to pull the submarine out of the mud.

It was believed an attempt might be made to run heavy steel cables under the Thetis and attach them to tugs to try to pull her loose.

There was no official explanation of how the accident occurred leaving the submarine stuck in a diving position in such shallow water.

Officials of Buckingham Palace cabled a report of the accident to King George in Canada.

inquiring about recent purchases of baby food.

Another detective found Bauers sitting in a park about two miles from the scene of the kidnaping yesterday. The baby was in the man's arms.

That's my baby — thank God he's safe!" Mrs. Margaret McCrohan gasped when she saw the child. Then she fainted.

Gerald's father and grandmother also identified the infant.

The child's mother, Mrs. Margaret McCrohan, 30, had promised the kidnaper there would be no prosecution if the baby were returned.

The appeal was made shortly after Mrs. McCrohan and her husband, John, 32, a paint company employe attended mass where special prayers were said for the safety of the child.

Gerald was taken from his carriage on a busy street corner yesterday while his mother shopped in a store across the street from a police station.

Mrs. McCrohan was hurrying through her shopping, anxious to get the baby home for feeding, when Marjorie ran into the store crying:

"Mommie, the baby isn't in his ccach any more. A blonde lady took him."

Storekeepers joined the mother as she dashed from the store, glanced into the empty carriage, then ran along the street stopping pedestrians and tearfully asking: "Did you see my baby?" At the police station she gasped out her story and collapsed.

Saw Woman With Child

Mrs. Margaret Day, who lives about a square away, told police she saw a woman carrying a baby down an alley in the rear of her home.

"She was carrying it across her arms like a bundle," Mrs. Day said. "It isn't the way a mother carries a baby and I wondered about it."

Neither Mrs. McCrohan nor her husband, John, 32, a paint company worker, could give an explanation for the abduction. Police doubted the baby was taken for ransom. They expressed belief the abduction was the work of a childless woman who yielded to an ungovernable impulse when she saw the blue-eyed, light-haired boy in the carriage.

Besides the baby and Marjorie, the McCrohans have two other chidlren, John 12, and Loretta 9.

Mrs. McCrohan was worried about a special diet and feeding schedule for the baby and late last night asked newspapers to publish the formula in hopes the abductor would see it.

"The baby was premature and we have had it on a special formula," she said.

Still Attempt To Step Up Relief

WASHINGTON,, June 2.—The senate, it appeared today, will follow the example of the house in going on record on the Townsend old age pension plan or some similar proposal.

The bill to pay pensions up to $200 a month to elderly persons was defeated yesterday in the house, 302 to 97.

But its congressional supporters were undaunted. Senator Downey (D-Calif) said he would offer as an amendment to the social security program either the Townsend plan or some other pension system.

Downey will get his chance when the senate takes up a long list of proposed social security changes which the house is expected to vote on next week.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla) said that if the Townsend bill failed to pass the senate, he would try to increase old age assistance to $40 a month for single persons and $60 for married couples.

Senator Borash (R-Idaho) commenting on house defeat of the Townsend measure, suggested that $60 a month for the aged was "not only humane but economically sound."

Townsend advocates have estimated the plan would produce $50 a month at the start for 8,000,000 persons over 60 years old, from its graduated tax on business transactions.

Their leader, Dr. Frances E. Townsend, who witnessed the house defeat of his bill from the gallery, said last night.

"We are not discouraged in the least because of the outcome of this vote."

Wheat Prices In A Cent Decline

CHICAGO, June 2.—(AP)—Wheat prices dropped a cent a bushel today and then recovered about half of the loss before trading ended.

Crop experts reduced their estimates of United States winter wheat production. The figures, however, were about in line with trade expectations and the total indicated 1939 harvest of 700,000,000 bushels was slightly above normal annual domestic consumption. Good overnight rains and prospect of continued unsettled weather over much of the belt induced selling.

Wheat closed ¼ to ⅝ cent lower than yesterday, July 77½c to 77⅝c, September 77¾c to 77½c; Corn ¼ to ½ cent down, July 51⅛c to 51c; September 52⅝c to 52½c; oats ⅝ to ¾ cent lower.

Early Gains On Stocks Reduced

NEW YORK, June 2.—(AP)—The stock market experienced difficulty in keeping an early rally going today and extreme gains, running to a point or more in the forenoon, were substantially reduced or erased at the close.

The ticker tape never got heated up at any time, frequently coming to a standstill. Transfers for the firve hours were around 400,000 shares, or about two-thirds of yesterday's aggregate.

Brokers said there was hardly enough change in the political or business picture to spur the acquisitive urge unduly. European affairs as in present sessions, were a negative factor.

Science And Religion

"Science has amply proved to the world what it can do. Every time we twist the dial on our radio we perform a scientific miracle. What is needed right now is less worship of the things science can do and a pointing out of some of the things it has not done.

It has built bridges that span great rivers; but it has not bridged the gap of prejudice that separates nations. It has eliminated the diseases of mens souls. It has sent great ships sailing through the clouds; but it has not been able to lift the clouds that hinder our vision of a new brotherhood. Science is tremendously capable of doing some things and glaringly inadequate to do some other things.

Tapping a cosmic ray may be a clever scientific trick, but it would help the world a million times more if they'd tap God's ray and bring a little more of His redeeming love into this world of sin."

The church is the institution designated to tap and set in motion the spiritual resources today. Why not accept he invitation to COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

Paul reported his third missionary journey with a collection for the home church at Jerusalem, when enemies stirred up opposition to the point of determining murder. Paul was his own defense with unassailable argument, with a good report and with a good life.

V. 40. "And when he had given him license, Paul stood on the stairs, and beckoned with his hand to the people. And when there was a great silence, he spake unto them in the Hebrew tongue." The arresting officer who saved Paul from violence, gave him permission to speak. Paul was no coward. He was ready to fight with words spoken in their own language which had a quieting effect.

V. 1. "Men, brethren and fathers, hear ye my defense which I now make unto you." Paul might have called them by other names which would have enraged them more. By the terms used he showed himself a Christian.

V. 3. "I am verily a man which am a Jew, born in Tarsus, a city in Cilicia, yet brought up in this city at the feet of Gamaliel, and taught according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers, and was zealous toward God, as we all are this day." Paul showed that he was a man of prestige, well-born, well-educated, with a good record as a Hebrew teacher. More than all this he had a record of having a great religious leader and being allied with the Sanhedrin. One's background has much to do with one's self defense in the cause of righteousness.

V. 4. "And I persecuted this way unto the death and delivering into prisons both men and women." The term "Way" was used for those later called Christians. He meets his persecutors with his past experience now akin to theirs, only his excelled theirs. If he had stopped with these words, all might have been well, but Paul had had a new experience which he is getting ready to deliver.

V. 14. "But this I confess unto thee, that after the way which they call heresy, so worship I the God of my fathers, believing all things which are written in the law and in the prophets. "This, a later speech portrays Paul as a Christian and yet loyal to the teachings of the Scriptures of that day. He had what those opposing him had and more —he had faith in God plus faith in Jesus Christ.

V. 15. "And have hope toward God, which they themselves also allow, that there shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and the unjust." Paul found grounds for the doctrine of the resurrection in the Scriptures, a doctrine not accepted by all. To have acknowledged the resurrection of Christ would have been to have acknowledged Christ as Messiah which was Paul's great theme.

V. 16. "And herein do I exercise myself to have always a conscience void of offense toward God and toward man." Cultivating a clear conscience is an imperative duty. The great apostle had to exercise himself in this direction and so must we. In a good conscience there is a ground for self-defense.

V. 19, 20. "Where upon, O king Agrippa, I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision; but showed first to them of Damascus and at Jerusalem, and throughout all the coasts of Judea, and then to the Gentiles that they should repent and turn to God and do the works meet for repentance." Of the three addresses parts of which are here recorded. Paul now reaches his climax. His purpose was to evangelize all people and he gives the steps necessary for individual redemption as here recorded.

V. 21. "For these causes the Jews caught me in the temple, and went about to kill me." So long as Christian people do little in making converts, those opposed to Christ say nothing; but as soon as there is evangelization, the evil one is astir.

V. 22. "Having therefore obtained help from God, I continue unto this day, witnessing both to small and great, saying none other things than those which Moses and the prophets did say should come." Being reinforced from heaven, Paul was able to defend himself which he did in keeping with the teachings of the Scriptures with the addition of the next verse, namely the atonement of Jesus Christ in which doctrine is the new light which Paul proclaimed.

The Better Way

Such a sacred possession as our lives, held in trust, is rarely regarded as something whose ultimate outcome depends on how we handle it. If we are entrusted with a book, its condition when returned to the owner will show how we have handled it. If a farmer gives over the care of a field to another, the harvest from that field will show whether or not it was handled with an eye single to its becoming fruitful. No matter where we turn we discover indications of how well or how poorly things are being handled.

If life is a trust, it ought to be handled wisely, and with some definite goal to be reached. Life, as we have it, includes more than continuing to breathe for a certain number of years. Life is a storehouse of possibilities to be used, of abilities to be cultivated purposely, of talents to be invested for increase, of a thousand and one other latent powers to be awakened and put to work. The reckoning of the worth of a life shows how this and that in life have been handled.

Answers to "Do You Know?"

1. With Aquilla and his wife, Priscilla, because they were tentmakers like himself.
2. Gallio.
3. An able and eloquent Christian, but poorly instructed.
4. Joseph of Arimethea, a member of the Sanhedrin.
5. In the school of Tyrannus.

Discussion Questions on S.S. Lesson

© 1927 D. CARL YODER

1. Why did the non-Christian Jews so bitterly oppose Paul's ministry among the Gentiles?
2. In what way is Christianity a Way of Life?
3. As taught in this lesson what are the three things one must do to be saved?
4. How may a good conscience be maintained?
5. Why is a good life the best defense one can make?

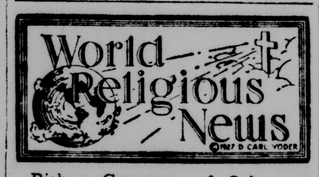

CLERICUS says, "In private and public, conscience dictates the right. Justice can not exist apart from righteousness. True righteousness springs from religion.

LESSON PRAYER: "How little we know of persecution as compared with St. Paul! We would be bolder in declaring the righteousness of God and more willing to accept the consequences. We would do right in all circumstances and for this purpose we implore divine strength."

Book Review

"Understanding Youth" by Burkhart, The Abingdon Press, presents practical, comprehensive and concrete suggestions for the cooperation of the home, the community and the church in the character building of youth. The author is a recognized youth leader and the book reveals the author's personal experiences in influencing the behavior of young people. Such significant topics are discussed as "The World of the Adolescent", "Chosen Goals of Youth", Principles of Living", "The New Home for Youth", "The New Church for Youth" and finally a "Program to Meet the Needs of Youth.

Bishop Gerggrav of Oslo says that at no time in a hundred years has there been such receptivity for the gospel in Norway as at present. He reports that there is a distinctly favorable attitude among the wage-working class in contrast to the alienation of the past.

The Bible still ranks foremost as the most interesting book ever published according to the findings of a nation-wide poll recently completed by the American Institute of Public Opinion. American men and women were asked to reply to the question, "What is the most interesting book you ever read?" The report indicates that the Bible is not only the best seller but the most general favorite.

It is estimated that one-half of the so-called Jews in Germany that are being persecuted are Christian converts and members of a Protestant Church.

A psychological survey made by the American Association for Adult Education, financed by the Rockefeller Foundation, examined 10,000 adults, seeking to find the influences which develop and enrich personality. It was revealed by the survey that those adults who belonged to the Church possessed much better personality traits than those who did not belong to the Church. It was found that those children who sent to church school had better personality traits than those who did not attend church school. It was found also that the children of parents who attend church had better personality traits than the children of those parents who did not attend church. These findings only confirm the testimony of millions that the Church has meant more to them than anything else in the world except the home.

Soviet Russia is disturbed over a habit which multiplied thousands of her people have, of saying, "Thank God." It is said that men and women in all walks of life use it. One of their newspapers in commenting on it recently said, "Is it not high time to cleanse our language of these outworn expressions?" God is still in the thinking and the speech of the common people of Russia.

African Christian Home

The Lutheran tells of an inspiring service of home dedication which occurred in Rhodesia, Africa, which might well set an example to Christian home-builders in America. A native Christian of the Nyadri mission in South Rhodesia recently built a home for his family. Before entering it he decided to emphasize its purposes, as he had seen done with churches, schools and hospitals. So, at his request, his home was set apart in a service of dedication in which the following words were used: "We dedicate this home to the deep affections of the family circle, and to all friendly hospitalities. We dedicate this home to the courage, patience and self-control which make life cheerful and serene. We dedicate this home to all beautiful things of heart and mind that lead the scul to wider vision and higher aims." After this dedication the family sang, "Lord, I Want To Be A Christian."

Our Preacher Says

It is a deplorable fact that one may ruin his character by just a single evil act no matter how much good he has to his credit. One act of killing makes a murderer. One theft makes a thief. The purest girl can lose her virtue by one wrong act and be fallen for life. It takes but one sin to make a sinner. But there is hope in Christ who forgives sins and cleanses from sin and imparts his power and grace.

What is the origin of Children's Day? The exact origin of Children's day is difficult to determine. From the beginning, it seems, pastors have devoted certain Sabbaths or parts of them to service for children but the perodic recurrence of a special day was an evolution. There was a noticeable effort to systematize and correlate the customs regarding the place of children in the worship of the Lord. Flowers, birds and children seem to belong together, and spring or early summer was recognized as an appropriate time for the observance of such a day.

Children's day is a day of opportunities. In many schools it is regarded as Promotion day with definite exercises showing the work accomplished in the various departments. Diplomas are presented, and everything possible done to impress pupils and parents alike with the value and importance of the Sabbath school.

Some schools link Flag day observance with Children's day, their programs assuming a distinctive patriotic tone. In other schools, invitations are issued to the grandmothers and grandfathers, and they are given special honor, the children themselves escorting the old people to the House of God where seats are reserved for them. Often flowers are presented to these elderly guests. The day should bring the children into a closer relationship with their heavenly Father, having as its supreme motive inspiration toward service and personal consecration.

Newest Handling of Milk Increases Value in Many Respects

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

When milk is placed in a bottle, the cream usually is at the top. Indeed, some people make a practice of pouring off the cream and using the remainder of the milk for drinking. Recently methods have been developed for mixing the milk thoroughly by a special process so that the cream does not separate. In other words, there will be as much cream at the bottom of the container as at the top. Milk treated in this manner is called homogenized milk.

The usual technic is to force the milk through a narrow opening at high pressure by means of a pump. The pressure may be from 500 to 4000 pounds to a square inch. The fat globules strike the side walls of the valve, causing them to break up into tiny particles. The number of fat droplets is thus increased more than 200 times and the droplets remain distributed evenly throughout the milk.

* * *

Dr. Philip C. Jeans has pointed out some unusual advantages of homogenized milk.

One is the fact that debris and sediment settle to the bottom, which they will not do when there is a cream layer.

Second, bacteria in the milk are broken up and evenly distributed so that unless the milk has been properly pasteurized, it will sour promptly. Therefore, careful pasteurization and extraordinary cleanliness are necessary for the production of a good quality of homogenized milk.

To many people milk thoroughly mixed in this manner will have a richer flavor and a smoother texture, the flavor being due to the slightly thickened quality. Thus homogenized milk may be used in place of light cream for coffee, cereals and similar table uses, making possible the use of a smaller amount of whole cream. Some people, however, do not like the taste as well.

* * *

The chief value of homogenized milk concerns the texture of the curd which is the first stage into which milk passes when it undergoes digestion in the stomach.

Apparently homogenization of milk makes a softer curd and thus apparently should aid the ease of digestion. A soft curd is easily broken up; digestion of small particles takes place more rapidly than that of large pieces. Soft curd milk leaves the stomach more quickly than ordinary milk.

Homogenized milk also has the advantage of giving to all of the milk an equal distribution of its good qualities in the form of cream, of vitamin D if this has been added to the milk, and of its other nutritional factors. Furthermore, it may help digestion and relieve the feeling of overfulness sometimes felt by people after they have taken a quantity of milk.

Theft of the Willamette meteorite was discovered after it had been transported with great effort through the rough and timbered Oregon hills. Owners of the land on which it originally fell sold it for $20,600 to Mrs. Dodge, New York philanthropist, who gave it to the American Museum of Natural History, where it is on display.

The Bible is the world's best seller, an average of 30,000,000 copies being sold annually.

Bus Trip Is Fine Vacation For Any Set Of Youngsters

By Olive Roberts Barton

Thoughts are turning to vacation trips. Parents, as usual, are anxious to give their children an outing, even though they are not able to get away themselves.

The bus trip has taken hold of the organized youth clubs but I see no reason why neighborhood or community clubs could not do the same thing. Parents could get together and arrange for such trips. In charge of responsible and experienced adults, they would be very safe, I think.

Whether or not younger children were to go, would depend upon conditions, distance, objective and health. Girls need not be left behind, for their groups can be organized on the same principles as those of the boys. A difference in the personnel of chaperones would be about the only distinction.

If you happen to be thinking of some such trip for a party of young people, my advice is to plan ahead every move to be made.

Reservations must be sought early. An outfit intending to camp nights, should know where it can do so. There will have to be an extra truck to haul tents, beds and bedding, food and kits.

Lay Down Law In Advance

Rules for governing everybody must be made in advance, so there will be no misunderstanding of orders and the authority of the individuals in charge. One law should be final, and that is that no member of the traveling group may go off alone.

I suggest the idea for those who are not aware of the trend to travel, among youth groups, because there is not only educational value in visiting strange places, but the equally instructive thrill of discovering our country.

If properly organized, I know of no better way for John or Mary to have a fine vacation than the bus trip.

Recalling the Rise Of American Farming

NOTHING is more epic in American history than the conquest of the west and the rise of the great plains farmer. A few years after the Civil War the country between the Mississippi and the Rockies was unbroken wilderness, save for a few mining camps, military and trading posts. By the turn of the century this same country had become the agricultural heart of America.

The great rush to the frontier began with the passage of the Homestead law in 1862, but the Civil War and the Indians held back settlement. By 1876, however, the Indians were practically conquered for all time, so that homesteaders moved in to plow where the ground was still hard-packed by buffalo herds. Thereafter it was only a matter of time until the lion's share of the nation's wheat was being produced on the last frontier.

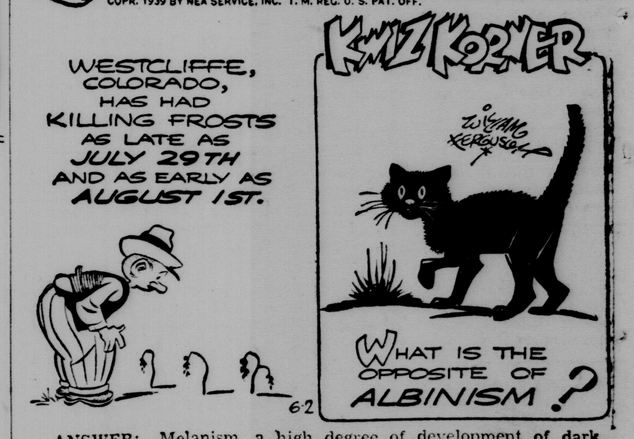

But all this came only with bitter struggle, for the farmer battled blizzards and drouth and grasshoppers and money panic. At the same time he battled the big cattlemen who had driven their herds into the great plains even before the farmer. The cattlemen wanted unlimited range; the farmer wanted fences. Not until 1890 did the farmer finally win. But today, ironically enough, there is talk that in many sections the cattlemen might have done better for the west than the farmer.

$5,400.89 Is Paid To Unemployed

From May 1 to 15 653 Get Benefits In This District

A total of $5,400.89 was paid to 653 claimants for unemployment compensation benefits in the district handled by the Sedalia Employment Service office, a division of the Unemployment Compensation Commission of Missouri, during the period between May 1 and May 15, it is announced by F. M. Henry, manager of the Sedalia office.

Included in the Sedalia district are Pettis, Johnson, Henry, Morgan, Benton and Hickory counties. The district weekly average payment is $7.78, as compared to the state average of $8.27.

During the preceding April, 1212 persons received unemployment benefits totalling $10,111.23, with an average weekly payment of $7.68. The benefits paid by the local office from January 30 to April 30 were 1.72 per cent of the total amount paid in Missouri.

Since the first benefit payments were made, on January 30, under the Missouri Employment Compensation law, the Sedalia office has authorized the payment of 4,014 checks totalling $31,215.78 to eligible unemployed workers in this district.

By May 15, the Unemployment, Compensation Commission of Missouri had issued 229,681 checks, representing benefit payment of $1,899,210.66 to out-of-work persons living in practically every section of the state who formerly were engaged in insured employment.

Files Suit On Railway Company

A suit has been filed in Johnson county by Walker Sparks, former boilermaker, against Guy Thompson, trustee in bankruptcy for the Missouri Pacific, asking a judgment in the sum of $8,359.30. The suit represents wages allegedly due Sparks, a former boilermaker in the roundhouse in Sedalia.

According to the petition Sparks was laid off during a reduction of the force in February, 1935, after having been in the employ of the railroad in Sedalia since 1916. It was charged the railroad refused to reinstate him in March 1935 in accordance with his seniority rights under the terms of a working agreement with employes.

Sparks contends he would have drawn $6.48 a day and that his loss through not being reinstated amounts to $8.359.30.

'Happy' Moser Plays In Broadcasts

Broadcasts of the Rita Rio orchestra, of which Miss "Happy" Moser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Moser, 1908 West Third street, is a member, can be heard over radio station WREN at 4:30 o'clock five afternoons a week.

The orchestra is playing an engagement at the Terrace Room of the Syracuse hotel in Syracuse, N. Y., and broadcasts over the NBC network. The time on Saturday is about an hour later than the first five days of the week and there is no Sunday broadcast.

Miss Moser plays the tenor saxaphone and clarinet with the Rita Rio orchestra which has been at the Syracuse hotel since April 8. They will remain there until June 20.

Bond Of T. E. Dugan Held Valid By Court

the mayor for approval, could not be certain whether the words were or were not, in the bond when they saw it.

The signers refused payment and the city brought suit. It was first filed in the circuit court of Pettis county, then taken to Polk county on a change of venue asked for by the city.

E. W. Jones, former city counselor, now chairman of the general counsel of the Missouri Advisory committee, in a deposition read in court said that he was in Dugan's office when he was filling out the bond form, and had suggested the addition of those words. Dugan asked him for his advice, he said, and because of some difficulty that arose in a case some time prior in which Jones was an attorney, he suggested the property clause.

Changed His Mind

Dugan, taking the stand for the defense, corroborated Jones' statement, but said that after Mr. Jones left he changed his mind about using the words in the bond, destroyed that one and made out another form omitting the "or property" clause. It was this form, he said, he took to the signers, and after they had attached their names he again changed his mind and put the words in the second bond.

Three of the defendants, E. W. and George E. Dugan and Dr. McNeil testified that they had not known of Tom Dugan's story of how the words happened to be in the bond until he testified on the witness stand. H. W. Mason, the fourth defendant said he had heard it two or three weeks before from H. T. Williams.

The Dugans and Mason testified that had the words "or property" been in the bond when they signed they would not have done so, and reiterated that statement when on cross-examination it was brought out that the property involved was very little in comparison to the large amounts of money that passed through the office.

Dr. McNeil was not asked whether he would have signed under those circumstances.

At the suggestion of the defense attorneys, and with the consent of the city attorneys, a jury was waived and the case tried before the judge.

Attorneys for the city were Fred F. Wesner, city counselor and John Martin, of Sedalia, and Thomas Douglas of Bolivar. Defense attorneys were H. T. Williams, J. T. Montgomery, and Henry C. Salveter, all of Sedalia and Herman Pufahl of Bolivar.

Grant Moseley Permit To Read His Statement

Provision It Be Confined To Own Opinions

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP)—Major General George Van Horn Moseley, retired, told a congressional committee today that while he disliked some of Chancellor Hitler's methods, he approved his restoration of control of Germany to "the hands of the German people."

Testifying before the house committee investigating un-Americanism at a hearing prosaic in contrast to yesterday's turbulent five-hour session, the ruddy former commander of the Fourth Army Corps said Hitler had "solved the racial problem" as well as the problems of international finance and trade.

In a letter to James E. Campbell, Owensboro, Ky., reserve officer, Moseley said:

"While I don't agree with him on some things, some of his remarks were most reassuring."

Moseley was interrogated about a letter written by Campbell to George Deatherage at St. Albans, W. Va., national commander of the Knights of the White Camellia, in which the former advocated government of this country by military courts. Asked if he agreed with such a plan, Moseley said:

"Oh, no—well, why not?

Refers To "Jewish Courts"

"They've got Jewish courts—it might be a good thing to pair them off."

Pressed for an explanation of what he meant by Jewish courts, Moseley said "courts appointed by organized jewry—not by the United States government."

He showed the committee a newspaper picture which he said was published May 10 in the Atlanta (Ga.) Journal depicting a scene in what was described as "the first Jewish court of justice" in the United States. Description accompanying the picture said the court was a rabbinical tribunal in New York City which handled civil cases which the litigants agreed would have legal standing as well as religious cases based on Jewish religious law.

WASHINGTON, June 1—(AP)—A mysterious aide of Major General George Van Horn Moseley declined today to let the retired army officer drink water from a water supply provided for witnesses before the house committee on un-American activities.

This incident occurred after the general, beginning his second day of testimony on Communist and anti-Communist activities, asked Rhea Whitely, committee counsel, whether he would "guarantee" the water supply.

The aide, who refused to identify himself to newsmen, warned the general," Don't touch it."

"I'll get you paper cups," he said.

He took a partly filled glass from the table before Moseley and carried it to a water cooler in the corner where he refilled it.

The occurrence escaped the attention of most of the audience, which was largely composed of brightly gowned women, many of whom had apparently come prepared to take notes on the general's testimony.

No Immediate Explanation

The incident was without immediate explanation but it recalled to some present at the hearing that on at least one previous occasion the general had been in fear of his life.

In the file of his correspondence collected by the committee was a letter he wrote a friend some months ago saying he might be "bumped off" on a western trip.

The general took to the committee room a statement on what he thinks about the "Communist emergency" in the country.

After refusing yesterday to let the former army corps commander read a prepared statement, the committee finally consented to let him do so provided it was confined to "facts and your own opinions."

Rep. Healey (D-Mass), acting chairman of the committee, asked Moseley to go over the statement with his attorney to see that it conformed to the committee's specifications. Healey told reporters he felt the committee would have to "take a chance" that the general had complied.

"Whom are you trying to protect?" the general demanded, when the committee sought to define what he could include in the statement. "I will accept full responsibility."

"That's not the proper attitude to take," Healey admonished him, adding that the committee intended to "spend a lot of time, with you, general."

Boisterous Session

During yesterday's frequently boisterous session, Moseley told the committee:

The president should free the army's hands so that it could combat Communism.

Police Bill Is Still Delayed

JEFFERSON CITY, June 1.—(AP)—The prospect of floor consideration of the Kansas City police bill this week glimmered today at the fag end of a calendar slowly working its way through an unhurried senate.

Five other house-approved bills preceded the police bill on the senate formal calendar, but the informal calendar was loaded with measures ready for consideration—among them the debate-provoking sales tax bill.

Should the upper chamber continue at its bill-a-day pace there is little or no prospect for the proposal to place the Kansas City police department under a state board to reach the floor this week. Sponsors have indicated they would make no effort to lift the bill out of its regular order of business.

Only a floor objection can prevent a senator from dipping into the informal calendar to bring up any of the many bills slumbering there. Such excursions into the informal calendar—and they have been the rule this week—hold the police bill dormant at its present station at the foot of the regular calendar.

All Aboard Grounded Sub Reported Alive

Four To Surface In Davis 'Lungs' From Undersea Craft

BIRKENHEAD, Eng., June 2—(AP)—The sleek new British Thetis grounded during a test run, lay in the clutches of mud and sand in the Irish sea today, with all aboard said to be alive and for the moment safe.

Four men escaped with Davis "lungs" to direct salvage and rescue operations, and the admiralty hoped that the lungs would bring the others of the 79 men who boarded her yesterday quickly and safely to the surface.

Eighteen feet of the 265-foot submarine were above water, but both of the escape hatches — one fore and one aft — were under water. The hatch in the stern, nearest the surface, was being used for escape.

The Thetis left Birkenhad and submerged in Liverpool bay at 1:40 p. m. yesterday for a test before being accepted from the builders, Cammell Laird Ltd.

She did not come to the surface on schedule three hours later, and search was started by 25 steel-clad warships, royal airforce planes, salvage vessels, and two submarines.

The destroyer Brazen came upon the stern part above water this morning 18½ hours after the dive started, and shortly afterward the admiralty announced that "the crew were at present safe," that there was "every hope of getting them all out" by the lung device, and salvage equipment was being rushed to the spot, about 14 miles northwest of Great Orme's head, a Welsh promontory not far from where the craft dived.

Captain H. P. K. Oram, who survived the H-47 and L-12 submarine collision in 1929 in which 21 died, was one of the first to escape. He is now commander of the Fifth British submarine flotilla and was captain of the L-12.

With him, to direct salvage operations and report on the submarine's condition, were two members of the crew, and F. Shaw of Cammell Laird Company, which had a party of 20 to 40 or more technicians aboard.

The Thetis was in 130 feet of water. An official of Mersey docks and harbor board said the "work of rescue continues, and there is a good prospect of salvaging the submarine."

There was no indication as to the cause of the trouble which befell the Thetis.

Townsend Old Age Bill Beaten

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP)—The Townsend old age pension bill was crushed in the house today by an overwhelming vote.

The totals were announced as 302 to 97 agianst the bill.

Ju stebofre . etaoinu nunu

Just before the final vote, a loud chorus of noes squelched an effort by Representative Treadway (R-Mass) to send the bill back to committee.

Treadway, ranking Republican on the ways and means committee, proposed that the legislation be returned to that group for further consideration with a view to bringing forth a bill that would provide "just an equitable pensions" for elderly persons "on a pay as you go basis."

Vote By Missourians

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP)—The house roll call vote defeating the Townsend old age pension bill showed Missouri representatives voting as follows:

Against—Anderson, Bell, Cannon, Cochran, Duncan, Henning, Nelson, Romjue, Shannon, Williams, Zimmerman, Short.

Paired for—Wood.

Death Near For Three In Blast At A School

Thirty-One Of The 57 Injured Are In Hospitals

BARBERTON, O., June 1.—(AP) Investigators unearthed a broken gas main today outside the wrecked school building where a blast injured 53 children and four adults.

Fire Chief Claude Witwer said a complete break was found in the 1¼-inch pipe feeding the frame temporary school, a former residence, with natural gas. The break, he said, was about nine feet outside the basement and the ground around the break was permeated with fumes.

Witwer said investigators theorized that the pipe might have been defective before the explosion, and that fumes perhaps seeped into the basement from the break. School officials said the gas meter inside the structure had been turned off about two months ago.

Of the 57 injured, two small children and a janitor were given scarcely a fighting chance to survive.

Doctors described as serious the condition of four others, including a teacher. Thirty-one of the 57 injured were confined to hospitals.

The blast occurred at mid-afternoon yesterday, blowing out walls and buckling the floors of the two-story, eight room structure, a residence converted last fall into a temporary school for first to fifth grade pupils.

Those near death were "first-graders" Dorothy Young, 6, and Frances Fisher, 7, both injured about the head and body and P. S. White, 59, janitor, critically burned.

The state department of industrial relations opened an investigation of the tragedy, remindful of the 1937 New London, Texas, school blast in which 297 children and teachers met death. The U. S. bureau of mines ordered two chemical engineers who have specialized in gas to investigate.

Some Be Disfigured

"The worst part of this is that some of the little girls probably will be disfigured for life," said a workman who aided in the rescue work.

Fire Chief Claude Witwer said evidence indicated gas accumulated in the basement from a lead near the building's foundation.

The janitor, who said he had been burning paper in the basement, muttered before lapsing into unconsciousness: "The whole basement must have been filled with gas."

As the blast ripped the building apart, the sides of the structure crumpled. Some children literally were blown to the ground. The little tenants of the 1-B room, on the first floor, plunged into the basement amid a litter of desks, timbers and plaster.

Second story floors slanted as on hinges, hurling children and equipment downward. Many youngsters were buried under debris.

Miss Miller was injured when struck by a falling piano. She was rescued by John Ruhlen, a carpenter at work on the nearby grade school which is being rebuilt.

"I heard the explosion and the screaming," Ruhlen said. "As I ran to the building the sides fell out and part of the roof came down. Many children not buried under debris were blown out of the house."

A small fire broke out in the basement, but was quickly put out by firemen.

Miss Miller, who refused hospital treatment until the children were cared for, said the pupils would have been on a nature hike 25 minutes later.

Of the 100 children in the five grades, those who were uninjured darted frantically from the scene. Screams of the trapped pupils attracted neighbors and workmen rebuilding the regular school building.

"If I live a thousand years, I will never forget the screams of those terrified children," said Mrs. L. E. Miller, a witness. "Oh, My God, those poor little tots."

Kenneth Grimes, a first grade pupil, loitered at a hospital for news of classmates.

"Gee, I don't know what happened," he said. "I heard a big bang. Then I was on the ground. I beat it right home to mother."

Mrs. Nellie Smith Dies

Mrs. Nellie Smith, widow of the late Francis Smith, died at 7:45 o'clock Thursday night at her home, 405 West Seventh street, after a long illness.

Mrs. Smith, whose maiden name was Nellie Shea, was born in Pettis county and had lived practically all her life here.

She leaves one son, Loy Smith, 1411 South Carr avenue, one brother, Steve Shea, of her home address, and two sisters, Mrs. Pat Donahoe, 315 West Seventh street, and Mrs. M. J. Collins, 315 West Fifth street. A sister and three brothers preceded her in death.

The deceased was a member of Sacred Heart church and of the Altar Society of that church.

653 Get Benefits In This District From May 1 to 15

A total of $5,400.89 was paid to 653 claimants for unemployment compensation benefits in the district handled by the Sedalia Employment Service office, a division of the Unemployment Compensation Commission of Missouri, during the period between May 1 and May 15, it was announced yesterday by F. M. Henry, manager of the Sedalia office.

Included in the Sedalia district are Pettis, Johnson, Henry, Morgan, Benton and Hickory counties. The district weekly average payment is $7.78, as compared to the state average of $8.27.

During the preceding April, 1212 persons received unemployment benefits totalling $10,111.23, with an average weekly payment of $7.68. The benefits paid by the local office from January 30 to April 30 were 1.72 per cent of the total amount paid in Missouri.

Since the first benefit payments were made, on January 30, under the Missouri Employment Compensation law, the Sedalia office has authorized the payment of 4,014 checks totalling $31,215.78 to eligible unemployed workers in this district.

By May 15, the Unemployment, Compensation Commission of Missouri had issued 229,681 checks, representing benefit payment of $1,899,210.66 to out-of-work persons living in practically every section of the state who formerly were engaged in insured employment.

Age Assistance Checks Mailed

JEFFERSON CITY, June 1.—(AP)—The Social Security Commission mailed June old age assistance checks averaging 18.77, an increase of 6 cents over May, to 75,896 Missourians today.

The June assistance rolls showed a gain of 370 over the preceding month. Total payments were $1,424,706 compared with $1,413,224 in May.

With one-quarter of the 1939-40 biennium completed, the commission has spent $4,222,972 for old age grants or 21.6 per cent of the 19,500,000 carried in the house-approved social security bill for the two years.

However, the rate of expenditure will increase after January 1, 1940, when the reduction in the age limit from 70 to 65 takes place.

The assistance rolls have varied only about 1,000 in the first six months of 1939, despite the changes made early in the legislative session designed to tighten the social security laws in compliance with federal demands. There were 74,821 recipients in January.

June recipients and payments by counties included:

Boone 939, $15,333; Buchanan, 1,882, $36,159; Butler 595, $10,796; Cape Girardeau 542, $8,442; Cole 389, $7,101; Greene 2,078, $43,610; Grundy 515, $8,816; Jackson 7,557, $159,892; Jasper 2,284, $47,706; Livingston 627, $11,148; Marion 846, $14,320; Nodaway 711, $14,057; Pettis 1,098, $23,302; Randolph 904, $16,731; St. Louis City, 7,975, $171,455; St. Louis County 1,949, $35,905; and Vernon 854, $17,473.

Mrs. J.M.Glenn Dies At Home

Mrs. Rebecca Otten Glenn, 80 years old, widow of the late John M. Glenn, former postmaster in Sedalia, passed away at her home, 417 West Fifth street, about 12:40 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Glenn had been in failing health for the past several years, but her condition was not critical until but a few days ago.

She was born at Boonville, Missouri, September 9, 1858, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Otten. When but a small girl she came to Sedalia to make her home and was reared and educated in the schools of this city.

Mrs. Glenn was married to John M. Glenn February 10, 1879. They continued to make Sedalia their home, and four children were born to this union. Three who survive are: Mrs. Robert G. Cousley of Portland, Ore., wife of a retired major of the United States army; Harry A. Glenn of Wichita Falls, Texas and Miss Madge Glenn of the family home.

Formerly In Postoffice

In 1898 while Mr. Glenn was postmaster, Mrs. Glenn decided to take the civil service examination and make application for a position at the money order window, which was then held by Mrs. Hart, whose husband had been postmaster prior to Mr. Glenn.

Mrs. Hart resigned and Mrs. Glenn was given the position and after a few years was transferred to the stamp window, in which capacity she worked until 1923 when she retired after twenty-five years of service.

Mrs. Glenn will always be remembered by the people of Sedalia for her pleasing smile, which she possessed until the end. Her happy greetings to the thousands of persons upon whom she waited, and the bouquet of flowers always present upon her desk at the postoffice made a favorable impression that one carried away after a transaction at the department over which she presided.

Mrs. Glenn was preceded in death by her husband on December 14, 1929, and by a son, Leonard Glenn, who died July 31, 1937.

Mrs. Glenn had been in failing health for the last several years, but her condition did not become critical until a few days ago.

Flag Day Talk Before Kiwanis

Lieut P. J. Handley, of the National Guard, delivered a Flag day talk before the Sedalia Kiwanis club meeting in Hotel Bothwell Thursday noon. He was introduced by the Rev. O. J. Rumpf, June program chairman.

Lieut. E. L. Claussen, in charge of the CCC camp was a guest.

Expend Millions In Crop Program

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(AP)—The Agricultural Adjustment Administration reported today it paid out $551,726,540 in crop control subsidies and operating expenses during the 10 months ended May 1.

The subsidies included $120,893,961 in cotton adjustment payments for the 1937 crop; $65,148,766 in sugar payments for the 1937 and 1938 crops, and $3,667,516 in parity payments for 1938 crops. The bulk of the balance constituted soil conservation payments.

Operating expenses, exclusive of county committees, were $16,608,464.

Missouri expenditures were $14,048,186.

Still Hopeful Deadlock Will Be Overcome

British And French Shocked By The Soviet Reply

By The Associated Press

A new stalemate in prolonged negotiations to bring Soviet Russia into the British-French front left London and Paris shocked but still hopeful today and brought smiles in Rome and Berlin.

The deadlock was caused by the statement of Soviet Premier-Foreign Minister Vyacheslaff Molotoff last night. He told the supreme Soviet, Russias's parliament, that Britain's proposals for a mutual assistance agreement—backed by France—said nothing about assistance to the "three countries on the northwestern borders of the U. S. S. R."

Presumably, therefore, Russia wanted guarantees for Finland, Latvia and Estonia besides those countries already holding pledges of aid—Poland, Greece, Turkey and Rumania.

Molotoff, however, kept London's hope alive by acknowledging that Britain and France were taking a "forward step" in their efforts to build a front and by saying that negotiotions are "not yet ended."

German Nazis considered the Molotoff statement not only a setback for Britain and France but also an encouragement for Italy and Germany. But there was no immediate comment in Berlin on Molotoff's remark that trade negotiations with Germany might be resumed.

Italian Fascists viewed the Russian objections as a severe humiliation for Britain if not actual renunciation of the British-French program. "Brutal Soviet frankness causes Democratic delusions to crumble," was Il Messagero's headline.

In Warsaw, Polish circles took the situation calmly, one view being that Russia's stand was an "obvious and not unexpected instrument of bargaining."

Confer at Danzig

Charles Burckhardt De Reynolds, League of Nations commissioner, conferred in the free city of Danzig with Albert Forster, Nazi leader there, and was reported planning to ask Germany for a frank explanation of her attitude toward the free city.

Japan and Japanese-protected Manchoukuo recognized Slovakia—the nation which emerged from the partition of Czecho-Slovakia and went under German protection—as an independent state.

In Rumania, 2,000,000 voters balloted in an uneventful election for the chamber of deputies in King Carol's new corporative parliament. Leaders of the guilds or corporations, modelled after the Italian pattern, will name half the upper house and the king will name the other half.

Domei (Japanese news agency) reported in Shanghai that Japanese forces had taken the offensive in resumption of hostilities along the outer Mongolian-Manchoukuoan frontieer in which airplanes and tanks have played a part since May 7. Domei said a mongol force had suffered 700 dead.

Withdrawal of the Foreign Legionnaires who helped the Spanish Nationalists win the war virtually was completed with the sailing last night and today of nine troop ships from Cadiz, Spain, carrying about 20,000 Italian soldiers.

Start Search For A British 'Sub'

LONDON, June 1—(AP)—All available warships in the vicinity were ordered to search for the new British submarine Thetis today when she failed to reappear after a test dive and the tug accompanying her reported "something is amiss."

LONDON, June 1—(AP)—The new British submarine Thetis on test trials off Birkenhead was reported "a few hours overdue" tonight and the British admiralty immediately began a search.

The submarine, built by Cammel Lair and Company at Birkenhead, carried members of the firm as she proceeded on acceptance trials.

She carried out surface tests but after diving was not seen again.

The Thetis was commissioned last March 4 at Portland. Her normal complement is 53 men.

Officially described as a "patrol type" submarine she has a displacement of 1,095 tons on the surface and 1,579 tons submerged..

She is 265 by 26½ by 12 feet.

The Thetis was begun in 1936 and launched last year.

She left the yard this morning for trials in Liverpool bay beyond the lightship at the mouth of the Mersey river.

Will File Motion For New Hearing; 'Or Property' Clause Important

The bond of T. E. Dugan, former city collector, was declared valid by Judge Cornelius H. Skinker, in the circuit court of Polk county at Bolivar late yesterday afternoon, and the signers, E. W. Dugan and George E. Dugan, father and brother of the former collector, and H. W. Mason and Dr. C. A. McNeil, are liable to the city of Sedalia for Dugan's shortage, admitted by his attorneys and bondsmen to be $9,387.57.

In announcing his decision Judge Skinker said that it would be easy to make harsh remarks about witnesses' testimony, but that he would refrain from doing so. He referred to Dugan's conversation with E. W. Jones to the fact that he (Dugan) changed his mind twice, declaring it was rather unusual.

The bond, he said, was largely fixed by public law, it was on file in a public place where the signers, all in business houses within a few blocks, could see it at any time, and the signers had virtually made Dugan their agent. Therefore he said, he did not believe the bond was altered.

Will File Appeal

H. T. Williams, one of the attorneys for the defense said last night that an appeal will be filed Monday. The case was brought to Polk county on a change of venue.

The case revolved around the words "or property," interlineated in the bond by a typewriter. The bond was a form used commonly by city officials, with the necessary information filled in on the typewriter. The words "or property," written in as they were made the bondsmen responsible for any property in the care of the collector as well as money that passed through his office.

The property of the collector, which is of relatively small value in comparison with the money handled, was not involved, as the city was asking only for money embezzled.

Defense attorneys claimed any change at all invalidated the entire bond.

Jones Witnessed Insertion

The deposition of the former Sedalia city counselor, E. W. Jones, now chairman of the general council of the Missouri Advisory committee of the supreme court, was read. He stated that he went to the office of the city clerk on business, and spoke to Dugan, who was filling out blanks on the regular form for his bond.

According to Jones' testimony, Dugan asked his advice, saying he wanted the bond to be right. It was at Jones' suggestion, according to the deposition, that the words, "or property" were typed in.

They were added to the bond by Dugan in Jones' presence. Jones made the suggestion, according to his deposition, because of some differences that arose in a bond of a client of his at a prior time.

Tom Dugan, who was brought from the penitentiary to testify, said that he did write the words in at Jones' suggestion, but that later he destroyed that form and presented another, without the word "or property," to the signers. After they had attached their signatures, he said he reconsidered the matter and added the words "or property" to the signed bond.

Says Words Were Missing

George E. Dugan, the former collector's brother, testified the words "or property" were not on the bond when he signed it. He had with him a copy of the bond he said he had signed, and he added that "not until today in the court room" did he hear that "Tom" had inserted the words in question.

E. W. Dugan, Tom's father, said he would not have signed the bond if the words "or property" had been there, because he did not know what property was involved.

He also testified he did not know until yesterday afternoon that his son had changed the wording. E. W. Dugan said he had visited his son in Jefferson City but had talked to him very little about the words on the bond.

Banker Testifies

H. W. Mason, another of the bondsmen, said that Dugan, after being elected, asked him as a representative of the bank to sign the bond. The bank would then be depositor for city funds.

Mason said that two or three weeks ago he heard from H. T. Williams, one of the defense attorneys, that Dugan had interlineated the other two words.

Dr. Charles McNeil, the fourth bondsman, testified he had not heard until today that Dugan had added the words to the bond.

Witnesses for the city of Sedalia at the trial were: C. L. Hanley, cashier of the Third National bank; J. M. Bailey, city clerk, and Mayor Julian H. Bagby.

Attorneys for the city were Fred F. Wesner, city counselor, and John Martin, of Sedalia, and Thomas Douglas, of Bolivar. Defense attorneys were H. T. Williams, J. T. Montgomery, and Henry C. Salveter, all of Sedalia, and Herman Pufahl of Bolivar.

Order Funds In Risk Case Back To The Court

Move To Bring Distribution To Policy Holders

KANSAS CITY, June 1.—(AP)—A three-judge federal court today ordered all fire insurance companies involved in the Missouri $9,500,000 rate settlement to return to the court's custody all funds distributed to the companies under a compromise approved by the court in February 1936.

The judges, Kimbrough Stone, Merrill E. Otis, and Albert L. Reeves, signed a formal order directing the insurance companies to return to the court, which approved the 1936 settlement, the full 80 per cent of the impounded premium funds which had been granted them under an agreement approved by R. Emmet O'Malley, then state insurance superintendent.

The court also signed an order directing the companies to show cause by June 15 why the returned funds should not be distributed to the policyholders who received only 20 per cent of the impounded premiums, and the case dismissed with all costs of the suit and of the distribution to be paid by the companies.

At a hearing Monday, William M. Bullitt, Louisville, Ky., general counsel for the 137 insurance companies, told the court the companies will not resist the order directing them to return the funds to the court and that they would be able to comply by July 1.

Bullitt indicated however, that the insurance companies may resist the order to compel them to pay all costs. It was estimated the costs would exceed $1,000,000.

The companies set aside 30 per cent of the impounded premiums to pay lawyers fees, costs and the expenses of the Missouri insurance department. From that 30 per cent, it was stated, the insurance department was paid $160,000. Attorneys for the state received $500,000 and in addition the companies contributed a fund of $460,000 to bring about a settlement of the case.

The federal government investigating the income taxes of Boss Tom Pendergast and O'Malley, both now serving terms in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas., for income tax evasion, charged that Pendergast received $315,000 from this contribution fund and that O'Malley received $62,500.

Mr. Bullitt indicated he intended to raise the question at the hearing June 15, of whether the attorneys' fees and the sums paid the insurance department were to be borne by the insurance companies, or whether the recipients should be required to return their fees to the court.

The orders signed by the court today were prepared by Charles L. Henson, counsel for the insurance department, and Homer Berger, insurance attorney.

Watkins Will Get Out Today

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 1—(AP)—James J. Watkins, of Sedalia, serving a sentence in the federal hospital here for conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the embezzlement of WPA funds, will leave the hospital tomorrow on parole, a hospital official said today.

CCC Enrolee A Murder Suspect

ST. LOUIS, June 1.—(AP)—(U. S. Marshall William B. Fahy said today that Robert A. Smith, 20-year-old CCC camp enrollee, would be taken next week to Butte, Mont., where he is wanted as a murder suspect.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation announced Smith's apprehension yesterday at Jefferson Barracks. Gerald B. Norris, agent in charge of the FBI office here, said Smith, formerly of Stockett, Mont., admitted slaying K. C. Wickizern a salesman, in a Butte hotel on October 20, 1938.

Rebuilding Our Roads

If there is one thing on which the United States likes to pride itself, it is our magnificent system of hard roads.

It is perfectly proper that we should do so. There is no question that the United States has more and better roads than any other country in the world.

But it is one thing to congratulate oneself on past achievements, and another to turn smug, relax, and fall behind. And that is what we are in danger of doing in the matter of our roads.

It has been estimated, for instance, that 97 per cent of the surfaced highway now laid down is of the two-lane, 20-foot variety which is after all nothing but a horse-and-buggy road surfaced. It is not a motor road at all.

* * *

The American Association of State Highway Officials studied the matter in 1937 and concluded that there were then about 4,704 miles of three-lane, 3,082 miles of four-lane, and 221 miles of six-lane pavement. In other words, in 1937 there were only about 8,000 miles of multiple-lane highways in the country.

Only such highways can really be considered motor roads in the modern sense. And of the 3,303 miles of four and six-lane width highways, only 604 miles were divided so that traffic passing in opposite directions was divided by a raised parkway or center strip.

How much we have progressed beyond that since 1937 is not definitely known, but not much. And yet no one can consider a surfaced road really a motor road or modern highway unless it is at least four lanes, and divided in the center by such a parkway as to make interference almost impossible between traffic passing in opposite directions.

* * *

Germany has made progress in this field which might well be studied. Everyone who has driven its new motor roads, with two-level crossings, banked grades, divided lanes, lack of intersections, and general design for a motor age rather than a mere surfaced horse-and-buggy road, comments enthusiastically on the progress that has been made.

Germany, coming into the motor age 20 years after the United States, knows better than we did what needs must be met in modern highways. Starting now, practically from scratch, and with military needs constantly in mind, she has gone ahead with a road system which, as far as it goes, is perhaps the most modern in the world.

Our job is there. It is one more answer to those who say, "America is all built — there is nothing left to do."

Some fossils are the original, preserved bones of prehistoric animals; some are only stone casts, formed when the bone, encased in mud, rotted away; while another is the true petrified bone, where each detail of bone structure is represented in stone.

Parts of the St. John's wort furnished early-day sufferers with cure-alls for all sorts of ailments. Doors were decorated with the plant on St. John's day in the belief that it kept out evil spirits.

Mounts Hood and Rainier are the addition type of mountain. They were built up by materials thrown out of the craters of volcanoes.

Call For Genghis

The Japanese, it is reported, are hatching a plan to seize the remains of Genghis Khan, which have lain for seven centuries in a silver casket at Etsinhoro, Suiyuan, and place them within their own conquered territory in China. The idea would be to win the allegiance of Mongol descendants of followers of the Great Khan who carried his conquests across Asia and half way across Europe in the thirteenth century.

Well, it's not a bad idea. But it could be carried still farther. Why not seize the bones of the most ruthless and unscrupulous of all conquerors and carry them instead to Europe. Then the peaceful country of Switzerland could be overrun, the inhabitants bombed and butchered, and the bones of Genghis Khan enshrined atop the tallest Alp, in the midst of a desert.

That would be setting up an appropriate idol in the very midst of Europe which should inspire the armament race in all countries during the next twenty years until Genghis Khan's ideals are finally completely trumphant and civilization returns to the point where he dominated so much of it, back in the thirteenth century.

Arkansas, Realtor

The state of Arkansas, which owns one of every sixteen acres of land within the state, is considered by the American Society of Planning Officials to have adopted land policies which place it in the front rank among the half dozen states which have this problem in aggravated form.

The state has named a land commissioner who will classify the 2,000,000 acres of land, mostly tax-reverted, which belongs to the state. Land suitable for such purposes may be put back into private hands in "family-sized" tracts by sale or outright grant. But some effort will be made not to sell indiscriminately land for this purpose at $1 an acre only to see it inevitably bounce back on the state for taxes in a year or so. Proceeds from land sales will be used to pay administration expenses and protect and maintain the remaining lands.

Only one thing is certain about situations like this: Any plan is better than simply allowing such land to remain uselessly fallow, producing no taxes for the state, no benefits for individuals.

State Capital Newsreel

JEFFERSON CITY, May 28—(AP)—The legislature, which has heard no end of speeches on the virtues of the state highway patrol, had a little practical demonstration this week. . . . A vacuum cleaner disappeared from the house of representatives and caused considerable gossip reflecting on the personal integrity of first one person and another. . . Finally the highway patrol was called in to track down the missing cleaner. . . . Next day it reappeared as mysteriously as it had gone. . . .

Senator Allen McReynolds was host at a strawberry feast for the legislators the other day. . . The strawberries were furnished by the Carthage Chamber of Commerce. . . .

Classes Make Trip To Dam

The Seniors and Juniors of the Hughesville sigh school chaperoned by Glenn R. Snider, Miss Evelyn Miller and Mr. and Mrs. James Wiley, drove to Bagnell dam Wednesday. This trip took the place of the usual Junior-Senior line party with the juniors as hosts.

Two seniors, Handly Downs and Maude K. Davis and one junior, Lorene Thomason, were unable to go.

The drive and picnic lunch were enjoyed by the above named chaperons and Dora Dale Siron, Harry Smith, Dorothy Stephens, Clayton Callis, Bernice Stevenson, Billy and Warren Pittman, Ruth Owen, Lillion Rages, Ruth Barlish, Tessa Purnell and Bonnie Crain.

Mrs. Myers Held In Poison Case

GREENVILLE, Mo., May 27—(AP)—Sombre and silent, Mrs. Louise Myers, 42, today was ordered held without bail for trial in August on charges of poisoning her husband.

A crowd of nearly 1,000 Ozark mountain residents—one of the largest ever to attend a Wayne county arraignment—tried to jam into the justice of the peace office of George W. Babcock.

Mrs. Myers, unrepresented by counsel, sat silently through the reading of a statement Sheriff C. L. Rubbottom said she had signed, detailing how a slow-acting but deadly poison was put in a quart of tomato wine belonging to her husband, Grover M. Myers, 54, because "he was mean to me."

The original murder charge named four persons, but was dismissed on motion of Prosecutor Roy W. McGhee as to the other three—Mrs. Moneda Cook, 22, Oscar Franklin Stroup, 39, and Arley Hemp, 30.

McGhee immediately refiled separate murder counts against Stroup and Mrs. Cook, releasing Hemp. Under state law, persons charged jointly can not testify against each other. Babcock set June 6 as the date for preliminaries for Stroup and Mrs. Cook.

The alleged confession said Stroup and Mrs. Cook, neighbors, were present when the homemade wine was poisoned at the Myers home in Gravelton, Mo.

Four witnesses testified at the preliminary, including Dr. O. A. Myers, county health commissioner and brother of the dead man. Coroner Clint Wilson said he ordered Myers' body disinterred after authorities became suspicious. State Patrolmen B. F. Graham and Percy Little testified that Mrs. Myers signed the statement introduced in evidence.

Mrs. Myers, Mrs. Cook and Stroup were returned to the Wayne County jail.

Daniel Boone Days Will Be Observed

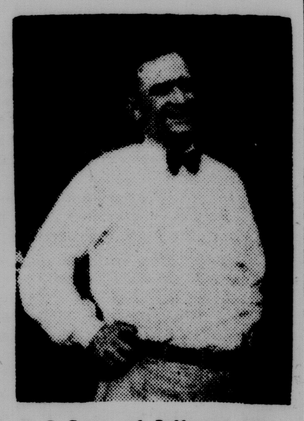

BOONVILLE, Mo., May 27.—Daniel Boone Days, in honor of the pioneer after whom this city is named, will be celebrated here this fall. The tentative dates are September 28, 29 and 30. The plans include a pageant, festival, parade, street dance and possibly an excursion boat and boat races on the Missouri river.

Judgement On Note

In a suit on note, filed by Clell I. Phipps et al against Wilbur R. Enns and others, judgment for $800 was given in the circuit court for the plaintiff against C. J. and Anna Enns. The case was dismissed as to Wilbur R. Enns.

Edward I. Love Dies In Train Wreck On Friday Night

Killed In Wreck

E. I. Love, of Jefferson City, former Sedalian, who was scalded to death in a freight train wreck near Jefferson City Friday night.

F. M. Truitt Is Injured As Flyer Derailed

Engine Overturns And Fireman Is Seriously Hurt

A broken rail is believed to have been the cause of the derailment of Missouri-Kansas-Texas passenger train, known as Katy Flyer No. 6, at 4:18 o'clock Saturday morning near Rhineland, Missouri. F. M. Truitt, 1002 South Massachusetts avenue, this city was engineer and Dick Snell, New Franklin, fireman were the only persons injured.

The large engine turned over, and caused several of the cars of the train to be derailed, but none of the passengers or other members of the train crew were injured.

The train had been slowed by Engineer Truitt to about forty miles per hour to make a curve when the accident occurred. The engine rolled over on its side breaking its connection with the baggage car, but did pull it to one side derailing it and causing other cars to leave the rail.

Mr. Truitt and Fireman Snell were taken to the St. Mary's hospital in Jefferson City in an ambulance where medical attention is being rendered. Mr. Truitt received painful scalds on his legs from the knees down, while Mr. Snell, a former Sedalian, received a severe head injury and his condition is considered serious.

A wrecker from from New Franklin went to the scene and began clearing up the wreckage. The tracks were cleared within a few hours and traffic resumed.

Meet By PTA At Pin Oak School

The P. T. A. of Pin Oak school had its monthly meeting Friday night, May 19th. As the attendance was small no business was taken up. The nominating committee met at the home of Mrs. Jess Tuggle. The purpose of this meeting was to nominate the different committees which are as follows:

Membership committee — Mrs. Jess Tuggle, Mrs. H. Riley and Mrs. C. Feeback.

Social committee — Mrs. R. Thomas, Mrs. C. Feeback, Mrs. Dillon.

The next meeting will be June 16 at the school. All members are urged to attend.

The P. T. A. is sponsoring a carnival June 2nd, at the school. Everybody welcome. The public invited—lots of fun.

Web printing presses, which are fed paper from huge rolls in an endless stream, can produce printed sheets at the rate of 13,000 impressions an hour.

Injured In Wreck

F. M. Truitt, M-K-T engineer, who suffered first degree burns when an engine he was piloting turned over near Rhineland, Mo.

Fireman Loses Life As Engine Overturns

Edward Irvin Love, 52, Missouri Pacific engineer and Paul Lackey, 42, fireman, were killed about 11 o'clock Friday night when the frieght train they were taking from Kansas City to Jefferson City, left a track loosened by water, and was wrecked. The accident occurred near Scott's Station, about eight miles from Jefferson City, their destination. The train, of forty-three cars, some of them heavily loaded, weaved from side to side on the loosened track. The engine left the track and plowed into the ground ahead, forced by the heavy cars in the rear and turned over. Both men were probably killed instantly, Love scalded to death.

G. A. Webb, head brakeman, who was riding in the brakeman's cab behind the engine tender was not injured. Twenty-three of the forty-three cars left the track, many of them piling up in a heap.

Bodies Found by Brother

The bodies were found by Engineer Love's brother, T. W. Love, of Jefferson City, Missouri Pacific road foreman of engines, who had been called to the scene. The wreck was reported to the agent at Cole Junction by a transient. Mr. Love was notified that there was a wreck and he drove to within a mile of the place. Leaving his car he started to walk down the track and was picked up by a signal man on a motor car. Mr. Love knew his brother had been engineer on the train and arriving at the scene hoped that he and the fireman had jumped. He started to walk away from the engine, but turned back and decided to look in the cab first. There he saw the body of his brother, but he was unable to move him until assistance arrived.

Engineer Love had pulled the emergency brake, and had his hand on the throttle.

T. W. Love, riding a passenger train out of Kansas City early Friday morning, had seen his brother on the freight train on a siding, waiting for the passenger train to pull out. The freight followed.

Others Uninjured

Other members of the train crew were Conductor Al Lane of Lexington, Brakeman W. D. Crump and E. A. Blockberger, all of Jefferson City. None of these men received any injuries, as they were riding in the caboose.

Steady rains of cloudburst proportions filled Gray's creek, which overflowed and carried away track support before the arrival of the freight train.

The train careened when the track broke, throwing cars as far as fifty feet from the right of away. Webb, the brakeman, said that the track gave suddenly under the train's thirty mile speed and twenty-three of the cars left the track, throwing poultry, eggs, scrap iron and other contents in all directions. Two cars landed in the creek at the side of the right of way. The force of the crash demolished a small bridge.

Sedalian Many Years

Mr. Love had been a resident of Jefferson City the past twenty-seven or twenty-eight years. He was born in Lexington, Mo., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Dudley Love, April 19, 1887. He was about three years old when the family moved to Sedalia, the family home being for many years at 1712 East Seventh street.

He attended the grade and high schools in Sedalia, and in about 1903 went to work in the Missouri Pacific shops, as a boilermaker apprentice. He went to firing for the Missouri Pacific in 1907 and in 1912 was promoted to an engineer, continuing in that service continuously. He had always been on the eastern division of the road.

In 1907 Mr. Love was married to Miss Laura Mae Gamber, and she survives, as do four children, Mrs. Verna Oxley, wife of L. F. Oxley, North Hollywood, Calif., Mrs. John A. Rose, Sedalia; Kenneth U. Love, assistant advertising manager and director of circulation for the Sedalia Democrat and Capital, Sedalia, and Duane Love, of Kansas City. He leaves also his 85-year-old mother, Mrs. Jennie E. Love, Shawnee, Kas., two brothers, T. W. Love, Jefferson City and J. Martin Love; Alexander, La., and one sister, Mrs. Leo T. Wendleton, Shawnee, Kas.

Father Killed By Engine

His father, the late J. Dudley Love, also an engineer, was killed near the roundhouse in Sedalia, December 13, 1918, run over by an engine. He had just alighted from his own engine and started to cross the tracks, going home, when the accident occurred.

Mr. Love was one of a family of twelve children. A sister, Leona, was burned to death at the age of three years; another sister, Anita, died suddenly of croup at the age of six; two brothers, Richard and Dudley, died at the ages of 21 and 14, respectively, of typhoid fever; another brother, Owen Love, died in France after being gassed in the Argonne.

Mrs. Jennie Love, his mother, has not been told of the tragedy.

Mrs. Laura Love, wife of the deceased, who has been ill for five months, is prostrated and has not been seeing anyone except immediate relatives, at her home in Jefferson City.

The word that Mr. Love was killed was received in Sedalia by his son, Kenneth U. Love, 705 West Fourth street, who, with his sister, Mrs. John A. Rose, 2308 East Broadway, left immediately for Jefferson City. Another brother, Duane Love, of Kansas City, arrived in Sedalia about 3 o'clock and drove on to Jefferson City, accompanied by Mrs. Kenneth Love.

Mr. Love, the deceased, spent Thursday night at the home of his mother and sister in Shawnee. They enjoyed a visit together, and when he left for the station to start on his last trip, was accompanied by his son, Duane, whose custom it was to take his father to Union station.

Mr. Lackey, a veteran of the World war, was born in DeSoto, Mo., and had been a resident of Jefferson City for the past 25 years. He served in France during the war and was a member of the V. of F. W. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Miss Mercedes. He had been engaged in railroading ever since the war.

Aged Farmer Is Robbed By Gypsy Band

Take Over $60 From Joe Musick; Woman Does Dirty Work

Joe Musick, 85-year-old farmer living about 20 miles south of Versailles, was robbed of over $60 by a band of gypsies yesterday morning, while he was walking down a road to his farm.

Musick reported that two cars, one a model A. Ford with an Alabama license and the other a Pontiac coach with Mississippi plates, drove past him and then stopped.

A woman got out of the car, he said, and came back along the road to where he was. She seized the aged farmer and took his money. The two cars then drove off towards Versailles.

When they arrived in Versailles, they were picked up by police there for investigation and the numbers on their license plates checked with the highway patrol. No report had come in at that time on the robbery of Musick, and they were later released.

About 30 minutes after they left Versailles, Musick managed to reach a phone and call the Versailles police. They immediately contacted the state patrol and a report was broadcast. However, the gypsies had not been picked up last night.

Deputy Sheriff Kennedy of Versailles said last night there were about 11 persons in the party, men, women and children.

Miss Fansler Weds Former Sedalian

Miss Alliene Fansler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Fansler, of Kansas City, and Leonard J. Knox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Knox, of Kansas City, formerly of near Sedalia, were married in Leavenworth, Kas., May 24, by Judge Parisa.

Witnessing the ceremony were Miss Dorothy Fansler, sister of the bride, and Orson Marsh, Ernest R. Carver and Miss Evelyn R. Stewart.

The bridegroom is employed as a bookkeeper for the O. C. Evans Produce Company, Kansas City.

The couple are living at 1023 South Bales, Kansas City.

Tom Rucker In the Movies

Through a chance meeting with Robert Frayne Chapin, stage and screen playwright, twelve year old Tom Rucker, son of Prof. E. H. Rucker and Mrs. Rucker, of Pasadena, Calif., formerly of Tipton, is a member of the cast "The Great American Family," which recently had its premiere at Pasadena playhouse.

In his searching for talent for the show Chapin stopped in a drug store where he saw young Tom at a soda fountain. The playwright "sized up" the boy, liked his looks and asked him to come and read the play. The casting director liked the boy's work and immediately assigned him to the role of Frank in the play. It had its premiere May 2. Critics were generally favorable in their press comments of the boy's acting.

The play was written by Lee Shippey, of Los Angeles, also a former Missourian whose home was in Higginsville.

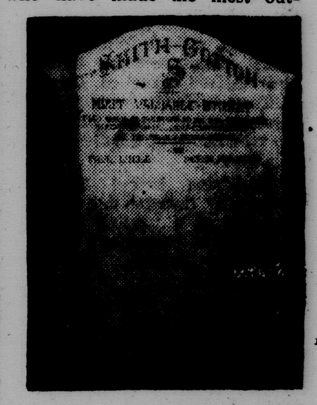

Thomas isn't the only member of the family who is doing things. His older brother, Neville Rucker, has recently played with the Pasadena symphony orchestra at the San Francisco fair during a week's engagement, and the boy's mother, the former Harriet Evans is a member of the ninety piece Pasadena symphony which will play Monday, May 29, for the world premier of "Jeptha" with four Metropolitan opera stars as heads in the cast.

The Ruckers are cousins of Mrs. Arthur Burton, 1208 East Ninth street.

Silver Tablet In Tribute To S-C Graduates

'S' Club Honors 'Pat' Poundstone And Paul Lingle

With the placing this week of the silver tablet in the trophy case of Smith-Cotton high school, the "S" Club has completed its first annual award of "The Most Valuable Student" of Smith-Cotton. This award, which is to be made each year, recognizes the senior graduates, boy or girl, who have made the most outstanding contributions to their school during the years in which they have been members of the student body. It is made upon the basis of scholarship, leadership, honesty, loyalty and meritorious accomplishment.

The two seniors to win the award this year were Miss Patricia Poundstone, and Mr. Paul Lingle, each of whom have been outstanding in their work in school, and who have won the regard of both students and faculty for their efforts on behalf of their school and its student body.

The selection of nominees for the award is made on a two-fold basis. The senior council of the school selects five boys and five girls, and the senior teachers submit a list of five boys and five girls. From these lists the nominees for the award are obtained. The committee in charge of the award then makes a check of the scholarship of the nominees in the office of the principal, and those of superior scholarship are then submitted for further investigation.

Neighbors,, ministers, and employers of the nominees are sent a confidential letter in regard to the character, personality, leadership, and home relations of the candidates, and this information is submitted to the committee.

The next step is the personal contact of the committee with the nominees, in which the committee itself trys to familiarize itself with the students whose names are still considered eligible. This information, then, is brought to the final committee meeting where the committee meets with a selected group of responsible students of the school. In this meeting the nominees are discussed and the reaction of the students of the school to the nominees is gained. The students are questioned as to the comparative merits of the nominees and the answers put on file. The committee then votes by secret ballot until all nominees are eliminated but one each of the boys and girls, and these two are selected as the "Most Valuable Students."

Selection Difficult

Commenting on this year's selection the "S" Club president, Cline Cain, stated: "I never knew it would be so hard to select two people. We established the award to let the students of the school know that those now out of school are still interested in the good work of those who are still in school, but we didn't realize that there were so many worthy students in Smith-Cotton, and when you try to compare the good points of one student with those of another, the task becomes gigantic. This year we finally came to the place on one award that we thought the only way out was to flip a coin, but a little detective work finally brought out some new points that seemed conclusive in favor of one nominee. Despite the hard work involved, though, I am glad to have had part in making the award, for it proved to all of those on the committee that many of the students of Smith-Cotton work hard and unselfishly for the betterment of student body and school of which they are a part."

Dynamite Stolen From Automobile

The theft of ten dynamite caps from a car owned by Henry Heitman Saturday night, is causing Mr. Heitman and police officers considerable anxiety, not because of the value of the dynamite, but because of the harm that might result.

Mr. Heitman planned to go to his cabin on the lake today, and had purchased the dynamite to dig out some post holes. He parked his car at Fourth street and Carr avenue, and on learning it had been robbed, an investigation was made.

Neighbors reported seeing four boys, three rather small, in the car, and that amount of dynamite in their hands, if they are the offenders, might prove very dangerous.

Russian-Jap Feud Flares Up Again

Manchoukuo Said To Be Battleground; Airplanes Used

MOSCOW, May 30.—(AP)—Unconfirmed reports of fighting between Mongolian troops, under control of Soviet Russia, and Japanese-Manchoukuoan soldiers were received in Moscow last night.

These accounts from the Far East preceded by a few hours an announcement by Foreign Commissar Vyacheslaff Molotoff that he would speak Wednesday on foreign policies.

It was taken for granted he would speak on Britain's revised proposals for a British-French-Soviet pact.

Many airplanes were said to have participated in the Far-East fighting, which Japanese circles in Moscow asserted had been under way since May 24 about 150 miles southwest of Manchuli, in northwestern Manchoukuo. Soviet quarters declined to confirm the reports.

Confer About Warfare

Shigenori Togo, Japanese ambassador, visited Molotoff May 25 to discuss the first clashes in the same area and was reported seeking another interview.

Just what was going on in outer Mongolia admittedly was a mystery.

The situation was more complicated than at Changkufeng, the area at the junction of Siberian, Manchoukuoan and Korean borders, since outer Mongolia nominally is an independent republic although very closely allied to the Soviet Union.

Moscow and Tokyo, however, always have reached quickly to any conflict developing between outer Mongolia, which uses Soviet planes and munitions, and Manchoukuo, which always can count on Japan for guns, planes and troops.

May Be Symbolic

What some observers here are inclined to see in the outer Mongolian clashes is "a demonstration" originating either in Tokyo or in Moscow.

Whether it be a move by Tokyo to warn the Soviet Union not to tie up too closely with Britain and France or whether the outer Mongolians are demonstrating the need of closer Soviet-French-British cooperation in the Far East is a point on which observers differ.

However, even if no attempt by either Tokyo or Moscow to "demonstrate" is involved and the border fighting is a spontaneous conflict taking on more serious form daily, it was said the result may affect seriously British-French-Soviet negotiations.

Call On Magazines For Retraction

MONTREAL, Que., May 30.—(Canadian Press)—The Montreal city council last night voted to ask Time and Life magazines to retract their reports of the royal visit to this province after one member of the council had termed the accounts a "slur" on French-Canadians.

Earlier, Wilfrid Gariepy, in the house of commons, declared Life's account of the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth contained "an absolute lie."

Life said under one picture of the king and queen in Ottawa, "here in good British Ottawa, their majesties ride in an open landau with footmen and outriders instead of the Chrysler with bullet-proof glass used in French-Canadian Quebec."

Kennamer Is Refused Further Clemency

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 30.—(AP)—Governor Leon C. Phillips denied further clemency Monday for Phil Kennamer of Tulsa, under 25-year sentence for slaying John F. Gorrell, Jr., Thanksgiving night, 1934.

As a result, Kennamer, the son of Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer, will be "dressed in" again at McAlester state penitentiary June 2 when his temporary parole expires.

The governor's action was announced in a letter to J. A. Minton, pardon and parole attorney.

Kennamer was granted the temporary parole by former Governor E. W. Marland in order that he could be near his mother, who since has died.

Race To Save Brother's Life Fails

Boy Bleeds To Death While Being Rushed To Hospital

REDDING, Calif., May 30.—(AP)—A 12-year-old boy's desperate efforts to get his wounded big brother to a doctor failed Monday when Timothy Smith, 19, died from loss of blood.

Timothy and Alexander, 12, were hunting rabbits from an old automobile when they went over a bump and the shotgun Timothy had rested on the floor discharged, blowing most of his left arm away.

Alexander pushed his stunned and bleeding brother to one side of the seat, got behind the wheel and started to drive the rickety car at top speed to Anderson, 4 miles away. In his hurry, he drove through a creek-bed with such a splash that water reached the motor and the car stalled.

The boy worked feverishly, got the car started again. A little further on a tire went flat. He drove in on the rim, but at Anderson he could find no doctor. A passing motorist finally took Timothy to the county hospital.

Fatal Shooting Over A Melon

CHICAGO, May 30.—(AP)—An argument over a watermelon led to the fatal shooting of Miss Muriel Campbell, 22-year-old telephone operator, at a West Side fruit store early today.

Anthon Papas, 55, clerk at the store, was held on a disorderly conduct charge pending further police investigation.

At police headquarters Papas contended, Police Sergeant T. J. King said, that he believed the youths and the girls had intended to steal a watermelon which Miss Freilich had passed to Miss Campbell.

After an altercation with Papas the girls and their companions fled to the street. Sergeant King said Papas admitted firing a pistol in the air with the intention of frightening the girls and men.

Appointments Are Offered By Governor

Stark Names Three New Members To State Health Board

JEFFERSON CITY, May 30.—(AP)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark virtually completed sending his long list of appointments to the senate for confirmation Monday with submission of 26 names, mostly for minor posts.

The governor's secretary said not more than "half a dozen" remained. Stark was criticized severely for delay in offering the names in a resolution presented to the upper body by Sen. Paul C. Jones (D), Kennett, last Thursday.

Only major position for which a name has not been submitted is director of the penal board. The governor appointed James E. Matthews, Sikeston, to this job in August, 1937, but the executive has indicated Matthews will be replaced.

Agree For The Reopening of Fire Risk Case

KANSAS CITY, May 29—(AP)—The federal court today reopened Missouri's $9,500,000 fire insurance rate case compromise, indicating 80 per cent of the amount may be returned to policyholders, and ordered criminal action started against persons "who foistered a fraudulent order on the court" in connection with the previous settlement of the case.

Charles L. Henson, chief counsel for the Missouri insurance department which asked reopening of the case, was instructed by the court to prepare such orders and submit them Thursday. He was instructed to prepare two orders:

1. That the 137 risk companies involved in the case pay back to the court approximately $8,000,000 as their 80 percent of the premiums impounded during the previous litigation; 20 per cent went to policy holders.

2. That the companies show cause by June 15 why this money should not be distributed to policyholders.

Maurice M. Milligan, United States district attorney was instructed by the three judge court to take two actions also. They are:

1. Prosecute anyone guilty of "foisting a fraudulent order on the court," under the statute which makes it a crime to interfere with the administration of justice.

2. Prepare contempt of court proceedings to be filed against anyone who had a part in bringing about the fraudulent order.

The prosecution pointed to the Boss Tom Pendergast and R. Emmet O'Malley income tax evasion cases and charges Pendergast received $315,000 for bringing about the settlement and O'Malley, ousted state insurance superintendent fot $62.500. In these cases, he said, the government had a witness "who in my judgment was a key witness."

"My recent understanding is that this witness is not in good health and is very greatly disturbed by events of the last two weeks," Milligan said, but told the court he would try to have him available.

He referred to A. L. McCormack of St. Louis, former president of the Missouri Insurance Agents Association who the government charges got $62,500 for his work in bringing about the compromise, but Milligan did not call his name in court.

The three judge court will sit June 19 to hear a discussion of the answer which the companies must fine on June 15 to the demand they show cause why the money should not be distributed to policyholders.

Companies Agree

The 137 risk companies involved today agreed the case granting them 80 per cent of the impounded premiums should be reopened in federal court here.

Their attorney, William Marshall Bullitt of Louisville, Ky., told a three-judge court to use its own judgment as to the entire compromise and as to the question of returning $8,000,000 in impounded premiums to policyholders, which was paid under settlement to the companies.

Bullett said a fradulent order had been obtained in the court concerning the case. R. E. O'Malley, ousted Missouri insurance superintendent, and Boss Tom Pendergast, admitted getting $62,500 and $315,000 for their influence. They pleaded guilty last week to income taxes evasion charges last week, admitting they did not pay taxes on the amounts they received for their activities.

In a brief address before the court, Bullitt said the companies "do not wish to have anything to do with that order in as much as they have learned that O'Malley received money for the order."

"Entirely to Court"

He said the companies are leaving action concerning the compromise order of Feb. 1, 1936 which gave them approximately $8,000,000 "entirely up to the court."

He explained this action might involve setting aside the order, and "that it might involve payment back of the money withdrawn under the order, but of course that raises the question of when and where that should be done."

He was introduced to the court by Robert J. Folonie of Chicago who was chief counsel for the insurance companies last March when the federal grand jury began an investigation of Pendergast's income.

Bullitt indicated the companies willingness to return the $8,000,000 or to do "whatever the court deemed proper and just."

Meanwhile, in Jefferson City, an ouster action was filed to bar the 137 companies from Missouri until they repay the $8,000,000 and surrender increases obtained in the 1935 O'Malley-Pendergast compromise. The same action was applied on five other companies doing only an intrastate business.

No Contempt Mention

No mention of contempt was made, attorneys interested in the case feeling that was a prerogative of the court. The petition listed 28 specific allegations.

The 3-judge federal court which ordered the compromise and which sat again today is composed of Judge Kimbrough stone of the court of appeals and District Judge Albert L. Reeves and Merrill E. Otis.

Fraud in connection with the compromise was brought into the open by pleas of guilty by Boss Tom Pendergast and R. E. O'Malley, ousted insurance superintendent on income tax evasion indictments. Both admitted getting large sums for their influence—Pendergast $315,000 and O'Malley $62,500. Maurice M. Milligan, United States district attorney, also charged A. L. McCormack of St. Louis, former president of the Missouri Insurance Agents association, got $62,500.

In the compromise 20 per cent of the approximately $9,500,000 was returned to policyholders, the rest went to the risk companies with orders they pay the cost of litigation. The fund accumulated from impounded premiums during litigation over a court fight to increase fire insurance rates in the state.

Ruling Is Given On Death Taxes

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The supreme court ruled today death taxes may be be imposed on intangible property (securities) both by a state in which the deceased person had his domicil and by other states in which the property was located.

This 5 to 4 ruling was delivered in two cases by Justice Stone. The litigation directly involved controversies between New York and Colorado and between Alabama and Tennessee.

In another important tax decision, the court sustained a personal property assessment imposed by Newark, N. J., on intangible property owned by three insurance companies incorporated in New Jersey but having their principal business offices in New York.

The court postponed until next Monday action on litigation involving whether Mayor Frank Hague had violated the constitutional right of free assemblage in barring CIO meetings in Jersey City, N. J.

In a decision delivered by Chief Justice Hughes, the court ruled that Marie Elizabeth Elg, of Mount Kisco, Westchester county, N. Y., had not lost her United States citizenship. This ruling confirmed an opinion by the District of Columbia court of appeals.

Windsor Man Is Killed by Train

J. J. Phillips, of Windsor, aged about 85 years, was struck and killed by a westbound Rock Island passenger train near the Windsor city limits about 3:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The engineer and fireman stated that Mr. Phillips was walking alongside the track and suddenly stepped in front of the train.

Mr. Phillips had been in poor health for some time and was frequently seen wandering considerable distance from home, when friends and relatives were looking for him.

He was born near Windsor, on the Phillips farm, and was a successful farmer before moving to Windsor many years ago. He leaves his wife, a son, Russell Phillips, a daughter, Mrs. Fay Phillips Gunther, wife of a deputy sheriff of Miller county, and a son, Jess Phillips of the State of Louisiana.

Stark In Blast On Corruption

Stresses Urgency For Passage of Police Bill

ST. LOUIS, May 29—(AP)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark left no doubt today that he was unshaken in his determination to blast the remnants o. Boss Tom Pendergast's Kansas City political machine off the Missouri political map.

In a harsh denunciation of "these betrayers of Missouri democracy," he asked Missourians to demand the legislature place the Kansas City police system under state control.

"Tell your state senators you want them to vote for the Kansas City police bill and for its vital emergency clause," the usually mild mannered governor thundered in a mass meeting here yesterday.

His bitter attack was applauded vigorously by a crowd of 1,800 that packed the church in which he spoke, and was broadcast over a statewide radio hookup of four stations.

"One by one, Boss Pendergast, his personal associates and political allies are filing before the bar of justice to account for their part in the reign of corruption, theft and bribery now drawing to a close," Stark declared.

"You, the people, are the victors if the Pendergast spoilsmen are routed. You are the victims if they win.

"Today I call upon all Missourians, of whatever faith or creed or political belief, to join in a common resolve—and that resolve is this:

Urge Writing Senators

"Tell them you want clean government in Kansas City and in Missouri.

"There is no other choice when the Kansas City police bill comes up for final adoption x x x. Either they vote for honest government or they vote to keep the crooks and gangsters in power."

Commenting on Kansas City Mayor Bryce B. Smith's recent appeal for "home rule" before the legislature, the governor asserted:

"It is an adequate measure of the desperate straits in which the Pendergast organization finds itself that it feels impelled to produce this hitherto obscure gentleman and push him to the front with the sign 'civic virtue' pinned to his coat-tails x x x.

"We may fairly ask how Mayor Smith will keep his promises to clean up Kansas City when he derives his authority from a city council that is bound body and soul to Boss Pendergast.

"I call upon you, all the good citizens of Missouri, x x x to carry on this fight for good government. This war on organized crime and Pendergastism."

The governor pointed out the Kansas City Democratic boss "today stands convicted of having accepted a huge bribe for defrauding 800,000 helpless Missouri insurance policyholders x x x of an $8,000,000 insurance refund," but declared his followers—"a wholly corrupt political ring"—were striving desperately to preserve some remnant of the power "which for years has been used to rob and cheat the citizens of this state in every conceivable manner.

"And I say to you that if the forces of law and order cannot muster a two-thirds majority in the Missouri Senate (to enact the emergency provision of the police bill) it is a sorry day that is dawning for our beloved state and a sorry future for your children and mine."

Five Children Perished In Fire

TAMPA, Fla., May 29—(AP)—Five little children victims of a fire which destroyed their home Saturday night, will be buried here in simple funeral ceremonies tomorrow.

State Fire Marshall John Strohm returned to Des Moines after searching the ruins of the Tom Price home here, but did not disclose whether he found the cause of the tragic blaze.

Firemen found the bodies of five of the Price children, Daniel, 16 months old; Udella, 5 years old, and only girl in the family; Johnny, 3; William, 7, and Harry, 9 on the second floor of the frame home.

Another boy, Richard, 11, escaped. The parents were shopping in the downtown section, they said, when the flames broke out. Two other sons, Jack, 15, and Tommy, 13, also were away.

Mrs. Claire L. Montgomery Is Given Farewell

Women Tender Her Tribute At Court House Saturday

One hundred seventy-five Pettis county women, representing all sections of the county, met in the assembly room of the court house Saturday afternoon, to bid farewell to Mrs. Claire L. Montgomery, county home demonstration agent, who is leaving soon for Texas county to reside.

It was with sincere regret that the women, representing thirty-two clubs organized by Mrs. Montgomery during the past eleven years, told her goodbye. She has been "one of them" as well as a leader among them, they have appreciated her ability and grown to love her. It was to express this feeling that they arranged the farewell party.

Flowers, large bouquets and small ones, some gifts of friends in the city and county, some sent by commercial houses, decorated the assembly room. Mrs. W. P. Tucker presided over the program, during which Mrs. Montgomery was presented with a gift one dollar from each club she had organized.

Mrs. Tucker presented the following numbers:

Community singing.

Piano solo, Mrs. Harry Leaton.

A tribute to Mrs. Montgomery by James McCurdy, expressing the love and esteem the homemakers feel for her, and their wish for her success and happiness in her new field of work.

Mrs. Tucker, in closing, read the following:

"Listen my children and you shall hear, a story of one whom we think very dear,

Mrs. Montgomery came to us in 1928, and began at once to make Pettis county one of the best in the state.

She has to her honor thirty-two clubs with 750 members, all whom she loves.

With her cooperation we have won state honors, national honors three master homemakers, 4-H club and champion pie makers with fruit from the famous cherry tree.

So now we must yield to a higher hand, and wish her health, wealth and happiness in the beautiful southland."

• Windsor

(By Mrs. W. T. Jordan)

The marriage of Miss Zelma Lee Pickerill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darius Pickerill, and Clifford E. Oechsli, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Oechsli was solemnized Sunday, May 28 at 1 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. M. L. Riley read the ring ceremony in the presence of a small group of close relatives. Mrs. Orden Oechsli, of St. Louis, attended the bride as matron of honor and Orden Oechsli served his brother as best man. The bride wore a navy blue sheer dress, trimmed with white lace with accessories of white and carried a corsage of red rose buds. The matron of honor was attired in an ensemble of black and white and wore a corsage of red roses. After the ceremony a short reception was held with refreshments served by the mother of the bride, with her daughter cutting the beautiful three tiered wedding cake which was made and given by a friend, Mrs. Jim Carter. Preceding the ceremony a 12 o'clock dinner was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Oechsli. The bride is a popular young Windsor girl and graduated from the Windsor schools with honors in the 1939 class. The groom also was born and reared in Windsor, graduated from the schools here and also attended the University of Missouri. He is employed at the Oechsli-Twyman grocery store. After a short honeymoon trip the young couple will be at home at an apartment on North Main street. The wedding party guests included: Mrs. Frank Oechsli, Mr. and Mrs. Darius Pickerill and Darius, Jr., George Pickerill, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Oechsli, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Twyman and son Richard and Miss Virginia Oechsli of St. Louis.

Thieves broke into the M-K-T station early Sunday morning and took $14.00 from the cash drawer.

J. R. Bradley and wife of Nevada, Mo., were visiting relatives here Monday.

Robert Jennings and wife from Salem, Ill., spent Sunday here with relatives. Mr. Jennings is now employed by the Brown Shoe Co., as mechanic at their Salem plant.

Miss Merritt Mayfield came home last week from Urich, Mo., where she had been teaching in the public schools.

Russell Shephard and wife from Virginia spent Wednesday night in Windsor visiting their aunt, Mrs. Catherine Pollock. The Shepherds and two children were en route from Lincoln, Nebr., to their home.

The Womens Missionary Society of the Methodist church will meet Friday at the church with Mrs. George Wesner as leader with the topic: "Widening Our National Outlook," hostesses are Mrs. Elbert Marti, Mrs. Frank Elbert, and Mrs. Chester Davis.

Mr. and Hrs. Alva Carter and Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Kirkpatrick were Kansas City visitors Saturday.

John J. Phillips, who was killed when struck by a train Sunday afternoon was born June 8, 1857 in Johnson county, Missouri, the only son of Charles and Louisana Phillips, one of the respected and honored colonial families who came to Missouri in 1850 from Kentucky. January 21, 1883 he was united in marriage to Lula Peak who survives him, and to this union six children were born, of whom three survive, namely: Jesse V. Phillips, Russell Phillips and Mrs. Fay Gunter, also five grandchildren, Rowena and Vernon Phillips, Maurice and George Phillips and Mrs. Leota Boguard. Mr. Phillips was a member of the Presbyterian church, which he joined in his youth and was a life elder in the Pleasant Grove church. The family moved to Windsor about 1916 where he spent the remainder of his life. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock at the Baptist church with Rev. Timbrook and Rev. Riley in charge of services. Interment was in Laurel Oak cemetery.

Car Crashes Into A Home

A Plymouth coach out of control about 12:30 o'clock Wednesday morning crashed into the front of the residence of Mrs. Josephine Balance,, Negro woman, at 434 North Washington avenue, tossing her eleven years old daughter, Marjorie Hogan, out of bed onto the flooor.

The Plymouth car of Mrs. Alberta President also a negro woman, was parked in front of her home at 313 East Cooper street, and she was sitting in the front seat holding her baby and Mrs. Edna Payton, a friend, was sitting next to her. Suddenly the car started rolling and the ignition having been left on, the motor started.

Mrs. President endeavored to step on the brake but instead put her foot on the accelerator and the car lurched forward and speeded nearly a half a block, to jump the curb at the end of the street and crash into the residence.

The little girl was asleep on a daybed in the front room, the car crashed into the front wall, knocking the bed across the room, smashing furniture.

Fire Destroys Store At Mora

The O. E. Schlesselman general merchandise store at Mora, southeast of Sedalia, was destroyed by fire which was discovered about 2:15 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Mr. Schlesselman, whose home is across a lot from the store, first saw the blaze, but evidently it had been burning for some time because the interior of the store was filled with fire and smoke and it was impossible to enter.

A 1939 truck and 1938 Chevelolet car were destroyed with the merchandise.

Telephone calls were made to neighbors and a volunteer fire squad was formed, but there being no water or fire fighting apparatus near, it was impossible to do more than protect other nearby buildings.

Markers Taken From Graves

"The meanest persons in the world are those who will steal grave markers," said a visitor to Crown Hill yesterday. Already several markers have been reported as missing from graves in the Crown Hill cemetery, American Legion markers, which were placed upon the graves of World War veterans.

The only reason found for such thievery was for the metal which could be obtained from a marker, and each marker being small a great amount of money cannot be realized from the sale of these markers for junk.

It has been requested that relatives of deceased war veterans from whose graves markers have been taken report same to Robert Q. Henderson, commander of the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion and to the police.

Numbers Given To Pendergast And O'Malley

Former Political Boss Gets Lowest By Early Arrival

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., May 30.—(AP)—Thomas Joseph Pendergast and Robert Emmet O'Malley have found a numbers game they can't beat.

The political preference system under which the two were privileged to drive motor cars with low license numbers in Missouri doesn't work at the federal penitentiary.

O'Malley, whose automobile was No. 264 in Missouri, was on the Leavenworth penitentiary rolls as No. 55,260.

The political boss earned the lower number not because he outranked the former state insurance commissioner and Kansas City water department superintendent in influence but because he arrived at the penitentiary gates a few hours earlier.

O'Malley, sentenced to serve a year and a day for income tax evasion, arrived at the front gate of the prison at 3 P. M., yesterday, just an hour before the daily deadline for admission of new prisoners.

He waved his straw hat to his wife, her sister and a niece, Mrs. Adaline Cross, who had driven him from Kansas City, then turned and walked into confinement.

Pendergast, sentenced for a year and three months on a like charge, had arrived at a side gate a little more than six hours earlier.

For 30 days the two will be in quarantine, eating only with new prisoners and denied yard privileges. After that they will be assigned to prison tasks or—in the case of Pendergast—possibly ordered to the prison hospital.

Ask Rezoning For Radio Station

A special call meeting of the city council was held Monday night to accept and act on an application filed by Albert S. and Robert Drohlich, of St. Louis, asking that five lots on the northeast corner of Broadway and State Fair boulevard be rezoned from Zone A. to Zone E.

The Drohlich brothers have a permit to operate a radio station in Sedalia. They have selected the above property, which is at the western edge of the city limits as the site for the station. It is now zoned for one family homes and the brothers are asking that the five lots they contemplate purchasing be changed to commercial property.

The council referred the matter to the zoning committee.

Homage Paid Soldier Dead At Crown Hill

Memorial Day With Appropriate Tributes There

"Democracy was geared for peace, not for war," Rev. J. C. English, pastor of the Fifth Street Methodist church said Tuesday morning, in addressing the members of patriotic organizations and friends, assembled at Crown Hill cemetery to honor the memory of the deceased soldiers of American wars.

He declared that differences between countries should be settled by arbitration, not by war, which, according to a national commander of the American Legion, "never settled any dispute."

The minister also called attention to the lack of religion in the world today, of the paganism so noticeable, and said that unless such paganism is checked, it will gain such a hold a campaign of righteousness will hardly overcome it.

Amanda Hargis Speaks

Rev. English was followed on the speaking program by Mrs. Amanda Hargis, of Springfield, Mo., state president of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic. She is also a national officer in the organization.

Mrs. Hargis outlined the history of the different wars, and stressed the bravery of those who had participated. Some may have made promises, she said, hardly expecting to keep them, they may have thought they were patriotic, hardly realizing what it meant, but when they gave their lives for their country, they immortalized those promises.

The program yesterday morning, sponsored by the Grand Army of the Republic, Spanish War Veterans, American Legion, Disabled Veterans and Veterans of Foreign Wars and their auxiliaries, was held in Crown Hill cemetery at the G. A. R. monument. Speakers stood on a large truck, made into an improvised platform.

Invocation Asked

The Rev. John M. Vander Muelen, pastor of the Congregaaonal-Presbyterian church asked the invocation.

D. S. Lamm, a captain in the World War, was chairman of the day and introduced the speakers. He also presented to the crowd William Kowazek, 92 the only Civil War veteran present, and Mrs. Charles Kooch, widow of the late Veteran Kooch. Mr. Kowazek is making his home in Sedalia with his daughter, Mrs. Roy Fine.

Members of the patriotic organizations carried their flags, which were placed side by side with the American flag. A volley salute by a firing squad, and taps, closed the services.

The beautiful ceremony of decorating the graves of soldiers of the late Civil War in the United States on the 30th of each May, is followed by relatives and friends of deceased soldiers who served in any of the American Wars. Robert Parkhurst, sexton at Crown Hill and J. R. Smetana, caretaker at Memorial Park, have been preparing for some time for this day, when hundreds visit the graves of their loved ones who have gone. The grounds are in nice condition, the grass, flowers and foliage at its best, and to the permanent vegetation, potted plants and cut flowers have been added by friends and relatives today. There are many persons here from out of the city, some who come once a year, for the sole purpose of visiting the graves of their dead.

Dr. Ruff Again College Head

FAYETTE, Mo., May 30—(AP)—Election of Dr. Robert H. Ruff to hi. fourth three year term as president of Central College was announced today by the school's board of curators. Dr. Ruff's annual report to the curators showed the college had maintained during the past year the record kept since 1913 of operating without a deficit.

Dr. W. D. Baskett, of Fayette, was chosen president of Central alumni. L. E. Ziegler, Boonville, Mo., school superintendent, was elected new head of the Letter man's club, an alumni organization.

Parochial Schools May Shorten Terms

KANSAS CITY, May 30—(AP)—A proposal to shorten the term of Parochial schools in the Kansas City diocese, to conform with the city school cut from ten to nine months, will be presented to the diocese board in July, Father John J. Murphy, superintendent, said Monday.

The city reduction was made to save money.

The Catholic proposal also affects Parochial schools in Springfield, Sedalia, Joplin, Boonville, Marshall, Higginsville, Nevada and Monett. The diocese has 60 elementary schools half of them in Kansas City, and 13 high schools, 10 in Kansas City.

Prison Fare To Pendergast

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., May 29.—(AP)—From a table graced by anything money could buy, to a table where it was "eat it or starve" was the Tom Pendergast's lot today. His was prison fare.

In Uncle Sam's big federal prison here, Pendergast accompanied other prisoners in the quarantine block to the dining room for lunch—his first in prison. The menu was ribs of beef, steamed potatoes, brown gravy, pineapple slaw, bread and coffee.

While he is in the 30-day quarantine, Pendergast will eat breakfast at 8, lunch at 10:30 and dinner at 3:30. Working prisoners eat at 7:30, noon and 6 o'clock.

Vandenberg To Seek Senate Re-Election

Be Receptive To Broader Nature Responsibilities

WASHINGTON, May 29—(AP)—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) announced today he would seek re-election to the Senate in 1940, but added that "if there subsequent responsibilities of a broader nature, I shall meet them to the best of my ability."

Vandenberg's statement was made in a letter replying to a request from Michigan Republican officials that he be drafted for the party's presidential nomination next year.

Vandenberg's Senate term expires in 1941, and thus he would have to choose between seeking re-election to the Senate and running for the presidency.

Vandenberg's statement today said the next Republican convention "must first set down cleancut, constructive, courageous principles which dependably promise to save the American system of free enterprise under the renewed spirit of constitutional Democracy, and to recapture prosperity for our whole people under a government restored to solvency."

"Then it should fit its nominations to its principles," the Senator said.

The Michigan Republican added that the convention should strive "to create common ground upon which all like-thinkers may unite to produce an administration for all Americans."

In such an administration, Vandenberg said, the president should be "a pre-pledged, one-term president" who would be "manifestly free of all incentive but the one job of saving America." the senator added:

"In my view, the nominations should flow from the deliberative judgment of a convention wholly free to search out the wisest, surest answers to these critical problems.

"Holding this deep conviction, it would be wholly out of character for me personally to pursue the nomination for myself. It is for the people themselves to speak. No man understanding its difficulties and responsibilities could covet the presidency; and no American could decline it if chosen."

Vandenberg expressed gratitude for the statement by Michigan Republicans, and said that he hoped "to proceed with whatever responsibilities lie ahead in a manner that may justify these generous opinions."

"At the moment," he added, "these responsbillties require me to announce that I shall be a candidate to succeed myself in the United States Senate.

"If there are subsequent responsibilities of a broader nature, I shall meet them to the best of my ability."

Sent 688 To Firing Squads

MADRID, May 27—(AP)—It was officially announced last night that the Nationalists' specially constituted councils of war and permanent military tribunals had sent 688 persons before firing squads since the fall of Madrid March 28.

The councils, formed by officers of the Madrid army of occupation, condemned 1,000 persons to death, but the sentences of 312 of them were commuted to prison terms by Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Officials of the military tribunals said in disclosing the figures that daily trials contributing to "the total normalization of the life of the nation," were "indispensible for initiation of the second era of empire."

Tribunals in Madrid have been trying 380 persons daily accused of assassinations, robberies, burning and cacking of churches, treason, imprisonment of Nationalist sympathizers and other activities during the time when the republicans dominated the city.

The number condemned includes those sentenced by councils of war operating in Toledo, Ciudad Real and Albacete in addition to Madrid. A roundup of alleged criminals in all newly-incorporated zones is continuing under direction of military authorities.

The latest number awaiting trial in Madrid was not announced, but it was officially disclosed less than a month ago that there were 46,000 scheduled to face the tribunals and 1,200,000 informatins filed in all Spain.

Mill Worker Beheads Son

LANCASTER, S. C, May 29—A 23-year-old cotton mill worker, Neal Brown, was in jail here today charged with decapitating his six months old son with a butcher knife.

A statement which Coroner F. L. Blackmon said Brown made was read at the coroner's inquest:

"I killed the baby and if I had it to do all over, I'd do it again. I was drinking, but I knew what I was doing. I would have killed myself, too, if had had a shotgun handy.

"I didn't want the baby to be raised in sin."

Brown's 17-year-old wife was quoted by Police Chief H. A. Montgomery as saying that her husband came home drunk early yesterday morning and threatened her.

"Neal hit the baby and knocked it out of my arms," he quoted her as saying. "I thought it was dead. I ran to a neighbor's for help."

Police Chief Montgomery said that when officers arrived at the home of Grice Collins, Mrs. Brown's father, they found the baby on the floor, its head severed, and a butcher knife nearby.

The Browns made their home with the Collins.

The police chief said nearly all the windows in the house had been smashed, and that Brown was cut from the shattered glass.

Montgomery said the police had to subdue Brown and that in the melee he himself got an ugly cut on the face.

Campaign For Army Recruits

WASHINGTON, May 29—(AP)—High army officials are preparing the most intensive recruiting campaign since the world war, with a goal of nearly 115,000 recruits or re-enlistments in the next 13 months.

The drive is designed to meet replacement and expansion needs of the air corps and other branches of the service.

Eighteen huge recruting stations on wheels, new slogans, posters, motion pictures and radio will be used.

Major Harold N. Gilbert, recruiting officer-in-charge, said some "high pressure salesmanship" might be used to assure that the air corps, particularly, gets properly qualified men for the trebele expansion authorized by Congress.

"We're going to make sure the boys in the country, as well as in the cities, know what the army has to offer," he said.

Pay Up On Back Income Levies

JEFFERSON CITY, May 29.—Kansas Citians are becoming income tax conscious.

State Auditor Forrest Smith said today since the tax evasion indictments of T J Pendergast and R. E. O'Malley more than 50 Kansas Citians have appeared at his office to pay up back income levies.

Most of the cases involved small salaried persons, he said, and the majority of them didn't know they owed a tax until they began checking up on themselves because of the Pendergast and O'Malley publicity.

There is no statute of limitations on Missouri tax returns—so one Kansas Citian settled up taxes back to 1917. It cost him about $2,500.

Retained Presidency Of Three Companies

KANSAS CITY, May 29.—T. J. Pendergast retained the presidency of three of the companies he headed when he entered the federal penitentiary today to start his 15-month sentence.

Best known of the three is the ready-mixed Concrete Company. Others are the P-R Realty Company and the Centropolis Crusher Company

The Star said two other companies, the Public Service Pulverizing Company and the W. A. Ross Construction Company, had been or were being liquidated.

Meet By Boys Pig Club

Mrs. Kathryn S. Hays

Mrs. Kathryn Stites Hays, wife of Earl P. Hays of Pilot Grove, Mo., died Friday night, in St. Joseph's hospital at Boonville.

Mrs. Hays underwent a major operation two weeks ago, and was apparently recovering satisfactorily. Her death was unexpected and a great shock to her relatives and friends.

She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve L. Stites of Pilot Grove, Mo., and was married to Mr. P. Earl Hays of Tipton, Mo., about 26 years ago. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Miss Ruth Hays, her parents and one sister, formerly Miss Edith Stites, who resides in Illinois.

Mr. Hays was manager of the Sedalia Industrial Loan and Investment Co., several years ago, and at that time resided at Thirteenth and Ohio.

They went from here to Pilot Grove to reside, and have since made that city their home, Mr. Hays being in the furniture and undertaking business.

The Hays family have been frequent visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ado Mansfield and have many friends here who will regret to hear of her passing.

Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield will attend the funeral.

Sister Emma Catherine

Sister Emma Catherine, of the Order of St. Joseph, died Friday at a hospital in Peoria, Ill., where she has been an instructor of English in the Academy of Our Lady.

Sister Emma Catherine formerly taught in St. Patrick's school in Sedalia.

William R. Nicholas

William R. Nicholas, 79, retired Missouri Pacific machinist, and a former Sedalian, died at his home, 903 South B street, Arkansas City, Kas., at 7:30 o'clock, Saturday evening, May 20, after being in ill health for several months.

Mr. Nicholas went to Arkansas City two years ago after retiring from his railroad position at Sedalia, Mo., where he lived 15 years. He was born in Texas. He was a member of the Baptist church and Masonic lodge.

Surviving him are his widow; one son, Alvin of Klamath Falls, Ore.; four daughters, Mrs. A. N. Calahan of Dallas, Tex., Mrs. Fred Abels of Cleburne, Tex., Mrs. George W. Smith of Butler, Mo., and Mrs. Harry Pfisterer of this city; ten grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; and one brother, Joda Nicholas of Dallas.

Funeral services were held at the Oldroyd chapel, Arkansas City. The Rev. John A. Craig officiated.

Masonic services were held at the grave with W. B. Eckley, master, in charge.

Mr. Nicholas was employed at the Missouri Pacific shops here and belonged to the First Baptist church. The family resided at 2122 East Seventh.

Funeral of E. I. Love

Funeral services for Edward I. Love, Missouri Pacific engineer who was killed in a train wreck near Jefferson City Friday night, were held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Broadway Presbyterian church, The Rev. A. W. Kokendoffer, pastor of the First Christian church, officiated.

The love and esteem in which the deceased was held was shown in a slight measure by the many and beautiful floral pieces.

Mrs. Percy J. Metcalf and Mrs. H. C. Johnson sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," "In The Garden," and "The Old Rugged Cross." They were accompanied by Mrs. G. V. Sneed.

Relatives and a large gathering of friends accompanied the body from Jefferson City, home of the deceased, and attended the services. Immediate relatives assembled at the home of Mr. Love's son, Kenneth U. Love, at 705 West Fourth street, just before the service.

Mrs. Love, his widow, had been ill and was unable to attend the service. Mrs. Kenneth Love of this city, remained with her in Jefferson City.

Friends who served as pallbearers were W. E. Edwards, J. T. Roberts, O. M. Hammen, P. H. Schreiber, all of Jefferson City, Missouri Pacific engineers; J. M. Whalen, St. Louis, Missouri Pacific Master Mechanic, and W. W. Adkins, St. Louis, Missouri Pacific engineer. With the exception of Mr. Whalen all have fired on the road for Mr. Love.

The St. Louis Engineers had the Engineers' service at the grave in Crown Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Rachael Kurtz Dies

Mrs. Rachael Kurtz, widow of the late August Fredrick Kurtz, died at 9:30 o'clock Sunday night at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. O. Botz,, 1300 West Fourth street, with whom she had resided.

Mrs. Kurtz had been in failing health for about a year, never regaining her usual good health after an illness of whooping cough a year ago. Her condition had been critical only about the last week.

Mrs. Kurtz was born in Florence, Mo., September 24, 1860, and was married there to Mr. Kurtz on January 26, 1882. In 1887 they moved to Boonville where she resided continuously until after her husband's death, April 25, 1935, when she came to Sedalia to make her home.

She was a member of the Methodist church, South, having first affiliated with that denomination in Florence.

Surviving Mrs. Kurtz are three children, Irving W. Kurtz, Clayton, Mo.; Mrs. Botz, and Miss Ida Mae Kurtz of this city.

She also leaves three grandchildren, I. W. Kurtz, Jr., Clayton,; Mrs. Burt Kauffman, St. Louis and Barbara Jean Botz, Sedalia; two great grandchildren, Mae Jean and Burt Kauffman, Jr., St. Louis, and the following brothers and sisters, Charles Otten, James Otten and Elmer Otten, Versailles, and Mrs. C. A. Insco, Kansas City.

Mrs. Lura McClung Gorrell

Mrs. Lura McClung Gorrell, widow of the late Hinton Gorrell, passed away at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning at the home of her son, Van B. Gorrell, 1302 South Kentucky avenue.

Mrs. Gorrell was born October 4, 1862, at the old McClung home stead, west of Sedalia. She was a daughter of the late John G. and Mary Elizabeth McClung, early Missouri pioneers.

In 1880 she was married to Hinton Gorrell, who died February 11, 1929. Surviving are three children, Charles W. Gorrell, 1209 South Lamine avenue; Van B. Gorrell, 1302 South Kentucky avenue, and Mrs. Hazel Dexheimer, of Route 3. Preceding her in death were a daughter, Mary Lima and a son, Richard. The deceased also leaves seven grandchildren, two great grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Emma Gorrell.

Mrs. Gorrell was a member of the Baptist church, a Christian woman who accepted the responsibilities of life in a real Christian way. She was known to her friends and relatives as a devoted wife, mother and friend.

Mose Cohn Dies

Mose Cohn, formerly of Warrensburg, and well known to many Sedalians, died Saturday at his home in Chicago.

Mr. Cohn was a brother of the late Julius Cohn, for many years a resident of Sedalia.

Train Wreck Scene

Puts Out 'Feelers' On Delegates

By WILLIAM B. ARDERY

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover was described by intimates here today as working quietly to line up a large bloc of uninstructed delegates to the Republican convention next year.

In recent talks with Republican leaders over the country, it was said, Mr. Hoover repeatedly has made two suggestions—that Republicans pick a candidate who will wage an uncompromising fight against the New Deal and that state delegations go to the convention uninstructed.

Mr. Hoover has said that he himself is not a candidate for the presidential nomination and that he is not working in behalf of any candidate.

Persons in a position to know said the former president's principal desire was to command sufficient convention strength to enable him to play a major role in the selection of a nominee and in drafting the party platform.

Mr. Hoover was reported to feel that there should be no effort by Republicans to "beat the New Deal at its own game" but that the campaign should center on a direct attack against the present administration's program.

It was said authoritatively that he probably would oppose the candidacy of any individual who did not share his fundamental political philosophy.

Mr. Hoover recently visited Thomas E. Dewey of New York, but reports were that he merely sounded out the prosecutor's basic political views and made no commitments regarding the stand he will take when candidate-picking time comes.

Another possible contender for the nomination, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich), will reply this week to a statement from Michigan Republican officials urging that he be drafted to head the ticket.

Friends said Vandenberg's reply would say that he would be gratified to receive the nomination, but would not indicate that he was actively campaigning.

'World Crusaders' Presented; Directed By Mrs. Leach

Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Leach have returned home from Springfield, Mo., where on three nights in the Shrine Mosque, Mrs. Leach's opera, "World Crusaders," was presented with a cast of 2,025 persons. The Springfield Music Club sponsored the music and this opera formed Springfield's main celebration of National Music Week. An 80-piece orchestra, 225 voices formed the chorus from glee clubs of Drury College, State Teachers College, the Springfield high school and choirs from the various churches, which was directed by one of Missouri's finest directors, Dean T. Stanley Skinner of Drury College. The great pipe organ, manipulated by two skilled organists, pealed forth glorious music. Two bands, several drum and bugle corps gave a really magnificent musical setting to this opera, which was given earlier in the season with much favor in Sedalia.

The churches, both Protestant and Catholic, assisted in this undertaking and many Jewish friends also were in the cosmopolitian cast that put over a tremendous production. Much talent was available owing to the colleges, many of the teachers and dramatic instructors participating in the cast. "World Crusaders" has been put on with success in many large cities of this country.

An unusual coincident in regard to this production was that Mr. Jewell Windle, president of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce, was general chairman for the event. He also was chairman for the Springfield and Greene County Centennial which was written and directed by Mrs. Leach several years ago.

The Springfield Leader and Press carried pages of pictures of scenes from the cast of the opera. The Press, in one issue, said in part: "The busiest person in Springfield last night was Mrs. Frank S. Leach, of Sedalia, the director of the opera. Everybody asked her questions and to everybody she had some instructions to give," and in describing the back stage excitement of the first night, the Leader and Press said: "Behind the curtain National Guardsmen rolled dice or lounged on piles of sand bags all ready to start their battle scene, in the wings, in the dressing rooms and in the huge basement banquet hall, milled hundreds of the cast, finding their assigned places and everywhere was Mrs. Leach, the director, and author of the vast spectacle, fluttering from one group to another in such rapid succession that the photographers gave up trying to focus their cameras on her."

An appropriate thing happened on the last night, climaxing the great endeavor, when Frank Knox, cashier of the Union National Bank of Springfield, who was also on the committee, presented to Major Dallas Leader, of the Salvation Army, a deed to a plot of ground which had been bought with the $1,000 profit that had been realized from the opera and upon which there will be started a recreational center and boys' club for under privileged boys of Springfield.

Spoke At Banquet

Mrs. Leach was entertained by many friends while in Springfield, and she enjoyed working with friends that had helped to make her dreams of the Centennial come true as well as her elaborate plans for "World Crusaders." At a banquet with some 250 guests held at the Y. W. C. A. at which she was one of the speakers, she was presented by the chairman as the "Cecil De Mille of the middle west."

Mrs. Leach says that where ever she might go receiving honors and acclaim as she has done, that her mind will ever revert with most real joy, to the loyal and steadfast support given to her by the citizens and cast in her own home town last November, when "World Crusaders" was presented at the Sedalia high school, when Helen G. Steele Music Club and the musicians of the city and county gave that beautiful music for her opera, Mrs. E. F. Yancey standing back of all of the music, as chairman; T. J. Alexander directing the high school orchestra and Burney Morris the choir of trained voices, and a cast of over 1,000 people that did their utter most to present a finished performance! All of that, she says, remains in her heart as a precious memory, as also will the trill of the immense audiences that packed the Smith-Cotton high school from door to door for two nights.

State History D. A. R. Topic

The Osage Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution on Saturday afternoon enjoyed one of the most delightful meetings of the year at the beautiful home of Mrs. George Bichsel, 619 West Third street.

The rare antique furniture, china, silver, glass and treasures of art provided great enjoyment, and this was added to by a most interesting and unusual talk by Mr. Lilburn Kingsbury, president of the Cooper-Howard counties Historical Society, and a kinsman of Miss Nina Harris, regent of the Osage chapter.

His talk covered the history of central Missouri, the Boone's Lick country from 1808 on, during the trouble with the British and Indians when the settlers, under the leadership of Col. Benjamin Cooper refused to leave that land of promise and established a chain of forts in pioneer homes which held the territory until peace was made.

After this came the survey of the Santa Fe trail starting from St. Charles in the east and extending across the state. Along this trail grew up a chain of taverns like hospitable homes for the travelers. The earliest were log houses of three rooms with a half story above for sleeping accommodations; the capacity being limited by the number of feather beds that could be laid on the floor, and the cost being determined by the number that slept in a bed.

These taverns were important centers of all political and social interest. In the Missouri Tavern at St. Charles, the first Missouri legislature met, the first governor was installed, and the first senator chosen. The Daughters of the American Revolution have placed markers on the sites of all early taverns on the trail and now maintain the restored tavern at Arrow Rock, furnished completely in furniture of the period, and containing a valuable historical museum.

At the end of the program Mrs. Bichsel and her assisting hostesses, Mesdames George E. Dugan, J. C. Ragsdale and Leslie Layne served refreshments in the dining room, after which all visited Mrs. Bichsel's lovely and perfect gardens.

Blame Worry For Suicide

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 27.—(AP)—Worry over his health was blamed Friday for the death of William A. Devereaux, 21, University of Michigan junior who eloped three months ago with the 19-year-old granddaughter of C. W. Nash, motor car manufacturer.

Devereaux's young wife, formerly Marjorie Ruth Wilson of Kenosha, Wis., found his body hanging by an electric cord from a rafter in the garage behind their apartment this afternoon and was quoted by Edwin C. Ganzhorn, coroner, as saying her husband had been concerned over his health.

Devereaux was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Devereaux of Detroit. His father is president of a company that manufactures motor car hardware.

Sues For Damages Over Auto Accident

A damage suit, asking for $2,750 was filed in the circuit court Saturday by Robert A. Moore against Lovell Farriss. The suit was the outcome of an automobile collision that occurred on Kentucky avenue, near Thirty-second street, March 12, 1939.

Lamm and Barnett are attorneys for the plaintiff.

It was decided to have a Demonstration Training Day the latter part of June or the first of July. Elmer Winner, Assistant county agent explained the value of a Demonstration Training Day.

4-H club camp was discussed by Mr. Winner, J. U. Morris, county agent, and some of the leaders who attended camp last year. The council voted to have 4-H club camp August 9 to 12 and plans are under way to send a delegation of at least 96.

Mrs. W. P. Tucker, president, presided over the election of officers for 1939. The following were elected:

President, Mrs. W. P. Tucker; Vice-president, Mrs. Demand; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Berry Elliott; Reporter, Miss Anna Franklin.

The council voted to have quarterly meetings in January, April, July and October. The meetings will be held on the second Tuesday of said months, and a program will be held at each council meeting. The first to be in charge of the officers.

Setback Given Safety Record

CHICAGO, May 29.—(AP)—America's sustained traffic safety record was given a setback by careless driving and walking on rural highways during April, the National Safety Council reported today.

The April death total was 2,210 compared with 2,250 in April of 1938. The safety record which during the preceding 17 months showed a 9 per cent improvement fell to a net improvement of only 2 per cent.

While fatal accidents in cities decreased 9 per cent during April from the same month a year ago, a 33 per cent advance in deaths on rural highways cut the net improvement to only 2 per cent.

The council said the estimated reduction of only 40 deaths was so slight that it could be wiped out by unfavorable records in a majority of the ten states still unreported for the month.

Despite the poor April showing, the ifrst four months of 1939 showed 870 fewer lives lost than in the corresponding period a year ago, or a drop of nine per cent.

Of 38 states reporting for April, 18 showed decreases, 17 increases and three no change. Increases were reported by Iowa, Nebraska, Arkansas, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Kansas City took the honors as the largest in the nation without a single traffic death during April and its 72 per cent drop in fatalities was the greatest decrease among the cities of more than 250,000 population.

Not Absent In School For 8 Years

Robert Parker has completed another year of perfect attendance, making him eight years with a perfect record, without being absent or tardy. Robert will be a freshman in Smith-Cotton high school next year.

Robert also has an outstanding record as a Boy Scout. He is patrol leader of Raven Troop 56 and won honors at the recent Scout camporee at the park. He will also attend the summer camp of Scouts at Camp Maries. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Parker, 2106 East Seventh street.

Burglary Of A Refreshment Stand

A. P. Beazley, caretaker at the Montgomery park, reported to the police Saturday the refreshment stand at the park had been broken into by thieves Friday night.

Twelve five-cent candy bars, fifty one-cent candy bars, two boxes of chewing gum, and a half-dozen ice cream novelties were stolen according to Mr. Beazley.

Granted a Divorce

Marriage License Issued

Winston Calvert Ream and Helen Edna Robertson, both of Sedalia.

Former Sedalian Rail Official

Fred G. Gurley, a former Sedalian, has been elected vice-president of the Atchinson, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway, at a meeting of directors held in New York the first of the past week. He will act as general executive assistant to E. J. Engel, president of the road.

Word of Mr. Gurley's advancement was received in Sedalia the past week. He was born fifty years ago in Sedalia, and received his education in the schools of this city.

After graduating from high school he attended an engineering school for one year, after which he went into railroad work. His entire railroad career has been gained with the Burlington, with which he began as a clerk in the superintendent's office at Sheridan, Wyo., in July of 1906.

He went to Chicago in 1932 as assistant to operating vice-president, later becoming assistant to the executive vice-president, and in 1936 elected vice-president.

Mr. Gurley has been a member of the executive committee of the Kansas City Terminal Railway Co., North Kansas City Bridge and Railroad Co., North Kansas City Development Company, Association of Western Railroads, and General Managers Association of Chicago. He has served on various committees representing railroads, and has also been witness in a number of important rate cases before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Mr. Gurley resides at Evanston, Ill., a suburb of Chicago.

One Dead; Three Others Shot

WEST PLAINS, Mo., May 29—(AP)—One man was dead and three other persons, one a woman, were in hospitals today suffering from bullet wounds as a result of a drink-crazed man going berserk at a farm near Thayer Saturday night.

John I. Sloan, 36, died in a hospital here at 6 a. m. today and Prosecuting Attorney Percy Gullic of Oregon county said he would file charges of murder in the first degree against Sloan's brother-in-law, Newman Childers, 38, a WPA worker, who is held in jail here.

Jacob Trobaugh, 58, and Mrs. Clarence Grooms, 29, his daughter, were brought to a hospital here and the condition of both is critical, doctors say.

Trobaugh suffered bullet wounds in the abdomen and arm and Mrs. Grooms was shot in the jaw, the bullet lodging near the spine.

Clifford Grooms, 30, brother-in-law of Mrs. Grooms, also suffered bullet wounds in the jaw and neck.

Sgt. H. J. Turnbull of the state highway patrol, said he was told several persons were attending an informal party at the Clifford Grooms home when Childers appeared at the screen door, drew a pistol and started firing without warning.

Mrs. Grooms was first to fall under the shower of bullets from Childers' gun. Sloan then attempted to rush Childers and he was downed by a bullet in the abdomen. Trobaugh managed, after being shot, to catch Childers, knocking him down and beating him over the head with a rock, the patroleman said.

The fact that Trobaugh had been wounded was not learned until some four hours later when he managed to drag himself back to the Grooms home, following his fight with Childers.

Turnbull said Childers asserted after sobering up that he remembered nothing about the shooting and denied he had any reason for raiding the party.

Father Accused of Killing Son

TAMPA, Fla., May 29—(AP)—A 74-year-old Tampa man was arrested today, Assistant City Detective Chief M. C. Beasley said, in connection with the slaying of his son and the son's common-law wife whose partly decomposed bodies were found in a watery grave on the shore of McKay Bay last night.

Beasley said the man under arrest was Oliver Bishop and he had identified the bodies of the slain couple as his son, George, and the latter's "common-law wife."

Bishop, Beasley said, refused to talk about the slayings, but admitted he and his son quarreled frequently.

Beasley said Bishop would be held for the grand jury. The couple, the detective said, had been bludgeoned to death.

Two Lose Lives Under Trains

JOPLIN, Mo., May 29—(AP)—Decapitation of friends by Kansas City Southern trains within 12 hours provided a weekend mystery for railroad and public officials.

Several Joplin residents said they saw a man, tentatively identified as Capp Murray, 45, killed beneath the wheels of a train Saturday night as he stepped from a flat car to a box car.

Sunday morning the decapitated body of Tom G. Martin, 44, a friend of Murray's, was found on the railroad's tracks about 10 miles south of the scene of the first accident.

Judge Otis Answers Critics On Pendergast Sentence

KANSAS CITY, May 27—(AP)—From a carefully prepared document, Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis read in emphatic tones augmented by gestures today his answer to critics of the 15-months prison sentence he assessed against Boss Tom Pendergast for income tax evasion.

Prefacing the sentencing of R. Emmet O'Malley on a similar charge, the jurist termed the Pendergast punishment "exactly in line" with that he had meted out on other guilty pleas and "one of the heaviest ever imposed" on an income tax violator who confessed his crime.

He compared it with prison terms assessed against Kansas City political followers of the boss who had admitted their guilt in vote fraud cases, analyzed it from the viewpoint of Pendergast's bad health and on the basis of judicial principle, then asked:

"Is it possible that an intelligent man will compare that (Al Capone) case with the Pendergast case?"

Capone, the judge said, "had a criminal record x x did not plead guilty x x x fought the government through trial court, court of appeals and the supreme court. "Yet, with all of that, his sentence was three years on each of three counts" plus "one $10,000 fine." Pendergast, indicted on two counts, was fined $10,000 in addition to the prison sentence and placed on five years probation.

The judge made no mention of the press but obviously was referring to editorial attacks on his sentencing of the boss as he answered "the criticism that sentence has received from good men."

Outlines Principles

Outlining the principles on which the sentence was based, the judge concluded with:

"These principles seem to me now as they seemed on Monday to be true and sound. Perhaps I should have ignored them in the Pendergast case alone. Perhaps I should have ignored in that one case precedents and principles and the commands of reason. Perhaps I should have yielded to passion and hatred and revenge. I am glad I did not yield."

In a section of his prepared statement headed "Pendergast sentence analyzed" the judge declared "a suspended penitentiary of three years, with probation for five years, following a penitentiary sentence of a year and three months which actually must be served in a felon's cell is much more than twice a sentence of one year and three months, all to be served."

That is true because "it is in the first year, the first week, the first day after the iron gates have clanged shut that the badge of 'convict' is fastened upon the prisoner." x x x

"Pendergast was sentenced to wear the badge of 'convict' for one year and three months behind penitentiary walls, in the seclusion of a prison, and then to wear it for five years longer before the eyes of his fellow men."

Referring to Pendergast as "an old and sick man" who "in all probability" faced "a sentence to actual punishment for the remainder of his life," Judge Otis said he did not agree with those who contend:

"He should have been broken under the wheel! At the very least he should have been sentenced to what for him necessarily would have been life imprisonment."

Explaining he had given "careful consideration" to the Pendergast sentence for 10 days in advance, the judge said it was based on these three principles:

1. "The attempt to evade the payment of a tax is not a crime malum in se, as is murder, rape and theft. It is a crime malum prohibitum. Oridinarly the only penalty for the offense is a civil penalty in 99 out of 100 cases wear the badge of 'convict' for any doubt that a citizen has attempted to evade the full payment of his income tax, the government has accepted the tax plus the civil penalty."

2. "If one is charged with attempting to evade a tax and pleads guilty to that charge he should not be punished for a score of other crimes with which he is not charged, as to which the law conclusively presumes his innocence."

3. While a judge may consider "mitigating and aggravating circumstances" in assessing punishment the circumstances "must be connected with the crime." Such circumstances include previous attempts to evade taxes, other previous crimes and the amount of money involved. "But it is absurd to say that the source from which a citizen receives income, however bad, or the purpose for which he receives it, however evil, is an aggravating circumstance of an attempt by him to avoid payment of an income tax."

On only one of 16 vote fraud cases in which he received guilty pleas did he assess a prison sentence, Judge Otis said, and that for only a year and a day. None of the 81 who entered nolo contendere pleas to vote fraud before him "was required to serve a day in jail."

As court opened Judge Otis read a telegram from James W. Morris, assistant United States attorney in charge of income tax matters, declaring the Pendergast sentence "quite in line with comparable cases" and all treasury officials with whom he had discussed the subject "entirely satisfied."

Sentence Of Year And Day Given To O'Malley

KANSAS CITY, Hay 27—(AP)—R. Emmet O'Malley, ousted Missouri insurance superintendent, was sentenced to Leavenworth penitentiary today to serve a year and a day while his political chief, Tom Pendergast is doing a 15 month term.

Both pleaded guilty to indictments charging they evaded federal income taxes in 1935 and 1936 on $377,500 "bribe money" they received for compromising in favor of risk firms the $9,500,000 Missouri fire insurance rate case.

Both were ordered to surrender before 2 p. m. Monday to start their sentences.

"They went down together," Henry Dillingham, United States marshal, commented," "so I guess they can go up together."

Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis called the insurance case payoff "bribe money" as he passed sentence on O'Malley and defended his sentence on Pendergast last Monday. O'Malley admitted he failed to pay income tax on $62,500 and Pendergast admitted a dodge on $443,550 in the two years. This included $315,000 paid for his influence by risk companies.

William G. Boatright, attorney for O'Malley, told the court the former insurance superintendent "was guilty of loyalty to a friend and at no time asked for any of the money for himself," but the judge asserted O'Malley "betrayed Missouri" and announced the sentence.

Fine of $5,000

Besides the prison term, O'Malley was fined $5,000. A two year sentence was announced by Judge Otis on a second count but he suspended this and ordered him on probation for three years, to start at the conclusion of the prison term. He also must pay the delinquent taxes with penalty and interest, amounting to $13,501.

Pendergast must pay $10,000 fine, stay on probation for five years after his release and pa delinquent taxes, penalty and interest, totalling $430,000.

At the prison Monday Pendergast and his political pawn will find a number of members of their Democratic organization serving sentences for vote frauds in the 1936 elections. The election day activities first brought government attention to the machine and started the cleanup campaigns by federal and state officials which have threatened to destroy the Pendergast organization whose influence spread from
